RUSSIA DENIES GOVERNMENT BEGAN THE KILLING

Official Communication Says Czar Endeavored to Prevent Riots.

WILL OF EMPEROR

People Do Not Prefer Internal Strife to Peaceful Development.

PLOT TO MASSACRE JEWS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 11.—A long official communication, published this morning, denies that disorders in any part of the country have been fomented by the government, and promises a most careful inquiry into the outrages against life and property and the adoption of measures to prevent their recurrence. It says that even were the accusations against the government confirmed they would not form a pretext for the recent terrible occurrences. The government recognizes that its duty is to remain quite impartial and to give its protection to all persons requiring it.

"The government will strive to fulfill the emperor's will regarding the freedom of citizenship," the communication says. "The hostile relations of different political parties and the non-participation of the Moderates may result in a situation unsuitable for the introduction of reforms, but the government cannot think that any considerable part of the Russian people prefers disorder to order and internal strife to peaceful development. The council of the ministers is, therefore, ready to execute the imperial command to the utmost."

Martial Law in Poland.

Gen. Dedulin, prefect of police, has issued an order referring to the rumors of a proposed attack on the Jews and the intellectuals, reminding the police that on them lies the responsibility for the maintenance of order and the safety of every inhabitant of the capital without distinction as to position, nationality or faith. He instructs them to bring to trial the instigators of violence and all persons found posting seditious proclamations.

It is announced that martial law will be declared throughout Poland.

Except in the kingdom of Poland, where the rapidly growing Nationalist movement and the state of tension among the proletariat will soon bring the declaration of a state of war, Russia seems for the time being at least to be generally tranquil. Telegrams from interior points report the restoration of order in nearly all cities and towns, but in many cities, notably St. Petersburg and Moscow, the better classes of the population are greatly disturbed, owing to the rumors of approaching attacks by the "Black Hundred," composed of the most ignorant types of the populace, which, according to these rumors, are scheduled to take place in St. Petersburg and Moscow tomorrow.

Must Maintain Order.

The apprehension in St. Petersburg has become so great that the prefect of police, who succeeded Gen. Trepoff in command of the city police, has instructed his subordinates to take the fullest measures to crush any disorder in its incipiency so as to disabuse the minds of the "loyalists" of the idea that the police would remain inactive. In such an emergency the strong hand of Gen. Trepoff is being missed, even by the factions which most execrated him.

Count Witte's cabinet may now be regarded as constituted, as Count Lamsdoff, minister of foreign affairs, and M. Manukhin, minister of justice, will retain their posts, leaving only the posts of minister of the interior and minister of education to be filled.

Dmitri Shepoff of Moscow, who was president of the first zemstvo congress, has definitely declined to accept any position in the cabinet.

No Support from Democrats.

Count Witte's ministry, as thus far announced, in a practical acknowledgment that he has abandoned hope of securing the active co-operation of the Constitutional Democrats or other parties. Four of the ministers chosen, namely, Ivan Shipoff, finance minister; M. Kutler, minister of agriculture; M. Timiriazeff, minister of commerce, and M. Filossooff, controller of the empire, were assistants of Count Witte when he was minister of finance. The only minister who is not a bureaucrat is M. Nemechaieff, who succeeds Prince Hilkoff as minister of communications.

The Constitutional Democrats consider that they have won a great victory in preventing any leaders of the constitutional group from accepting office, saying that Count Witte's ministry is thus stamped as purely temporary, and which must give way immediately on the convening of the national assembly to a cabinet in full sympathy with the parliamentary majority. The count is greatly disappointed at the refusal of the Constitutionalists to support him since it forces him to fight on two fronts, with the Reactionaries on his right and the Social Democrats and Revolutionaries clamoring for a republic on his left.

Schools Are Closed.

The universities and high schools throughout Russia have been closed indefinitely by order of the minister of education.

The excited appeals which the League of Leagues and deputations of Social Democrats and other bodies are making to the town council and Count Witte, to

MARTIAL LAW IS EFFECTIVE AT CRONSTADT

Roughs Are Prevented from Perpetrating Looting in the Night.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 10.—Martial law has been declared at Cronstadt. Vice Admiral Birileff, minister of marine, left tonight for Cronstadt.

The business streets of Cronstadt, stocked by the rioters, present a lively picture today. There are crowds of spectators on the sidewalks watching the unfortunate owners of burned buildings who were salvaging their property from the heaps thrown into the streets and from the wrecked interiors of stores. Patrols, mingling with all the crowds, prevent further robbery.

There was no disorder during the night. Late in the evening a squad of loyal sailors, bearing a white flag attached to a bayonet, marched to the district de-puted by the ringleaders and induced them to surrender, pointing out their revolt was merely being used as a cover for robbery and pillage on the part of the rowdy classes.

The "Tigers," as the roughs are termed at Cronstadt, wished to renew the pillaging during the night under cover of the darkness and general disorganization, but were unable to do so. The troops and inhabitants, working in full co-operation, prevented even sporadic attempts at further looting.

FRIGHT KILLS WOMAN AFTER FIGHT WITH THIEF

Mother and Daughter Have Desperate Battle With Burglar in Effort to Save Valuables.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. George Bowne, 60 years of age, dropped dead in her home in Washington, N. J., early today, after grappling with a burglar who was in her room. Hearing a noise, the old woman went to investigate, and found a man looting the sideboard. With a scream she leaped at the man and seized him by the throat.

He struggled to free himself and then began beating her with his fists. Still the woman held on, screaming all the while. Mrs. Bowne's daughter heard the screams and came running in just as the mother fell to the floor. The daughter fell upon the man and caught him by the neck, but blows from him sent her to the floor. The man ran through a rear door and escaped.

When Mr. Bowne and the rest of the household came they found the daughter hysterical. Mrs. Bowne was apparently calm, but she was too weak to rise to her feet. A physician was called, but before his arrival the old woman died. The physician said that fright had killed her.

He got $17 from a drawer of the library desk and a number of valuable old coins.

When asked why he committed such a crime, he said he wanted to go to the theater and had no money.

FRENCH DEPUTIES CAUSE A CRISIS IN CABINET

PARIS, Nov. 10.—A cabinet crisis was unexpectedly precipitated in the chamber of deputies this afternoon. During a scene of extreme violence the ministry supported a motion of M. Dumont, Radical Republican, to discuss the general policy of the government, but the opposition of the Nationalists and Socialists divided the government strength, causing the defeat of the motion.

Scandal Settles Dispute.

CARACAS, Nov. 10.—(Special Cable.)—Sensational revelations in regard to the French Cable Company are believed to have caused France to accept the final proposition of President Castro, that is, a mutual withdrawal of the notes exchanged with M. Taigny, French charge d'affaires.

MOTHER FALLS WITH LAMP; SHE IS DEAD, BABY DYING

McKeesport Woman Trips While Going Downstairs. Father Rushes to Assistance, and He Is Badly Burned.

Tripping on her dress while walking down stairs yesterday, Mrs. George Nystrom of Oliair street, McKeesport, fell on the lamp she was carrying and was so badly burned she died later in the McKeesport hospital. At the same time her 14-months-old son, whom she was carrying in her arms, was seriously burned and is at the hospital in a dying condition. The woman's husband is also in the institution, badly burned about the hands, face and arms.

When the family arose early yesterday morning, Mrs. Nystrom picked up the boy and the lamp and started down stairs. The husband heard a scream and a crash. By the time he reached the top of the stairs Mrs. Nystrom was aflame. The lamp had exploded and the blazing oil spread over her and the child. The latter fell some distance from his mother and was saved from being burned to a crisp. Nystrom rushed down stairs, calling for help, and members of the family of Charles Pearson, who lives in the same house, went to his assistance. They managed to beat out the flames that were quickly consuming the mother and child. In the meantime some one turned in an alarm of fire and then left the alarm box. When the firemen arrived they were unable to find any trace of the fire, but spent half an hour looking for it. They finally returned to their quarters. The blaze was extinguished by a few buckets of water.

Dr. H. S. Foster temporarily attended the victims, after which they were sent to the McKeesport hospital. The distracted father, whose hands, face and arms had been badly burned in the effort to save his wife and child, rushed out of the house after the ambulance and ran all the way to the hospital, where his burns were dressed.

CHEER FOR DAVIS ENDS IN DEATH FOR THREE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NAUGATUCK, W. VA., Nov. 10.—A cheer for Jeff Davis, uttered by a drunken man on Beaver creek on the Kentucky side of the river, today, resulted in a tragedy in which three men were killed and three others were wounded. Several men were drinking after the election on Tuesday. Con Estep, a Confederate soldier, was among those who had become intoxicated.

When he yelled "Hurrah for Jeff Davis," C. Prater, a young man in the crowd, told Estep to "shut up or he would kill him." Enoch Bentley, another member of the crowd, told Estep to "hurrah for any one he pleased." Prater turned upon Bentley and emptied his pistol at short range, all five shots taking effect. After he had fallen Bentley shot and killed Prater. Rube Morgan, a friend of Prater's, who had shot Bentley after the latter had fallen, fired at Tom and John Bowling, friends of Estep and then fled, but he was shot and mortally wounded by the Bowlings.

Bentley died soon after the shooting and Morgan died two hours later. During the fight, John Sadler, belonging to the Prater gang, was dangerously wounded. The Bowlings were both hit, but not fatally hurt. The excitement over the tragedy is intense and another clash of the factions is expected.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—After a chase of two blocks and a prolonged struggle, during which the priest used his fists to such good effect that the thief cried "enough," Father John R. Watson, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's church, today captured a man who had robbed the church's poor box of $21.

MR. CARNEGIE STILL HAS HIS CITY AT HEART

Dr. W. J. Holland, Returning from Europe, Tells of Laird of Skibo's Hopes.

Carrying the plaster cast of the head of a diplodocus in one hand and a golf-stick case in the other, Dr. W. J. Holland arrived in Pittsburgh from Europe last night. Since leaving American shores six weeks ago the director of the Carnegie museum has received an additional honor. He is now an honorary alumnus of the University of St. Andrews in the ancient Scottish town of St. Andrews "by the sea."

"Mr. Carnegie still has his heart in Pittsburgh," said Dr. Holland, as he walked down the street to his home, swinging the heavy plaster cast of the ancient dinosaur. "When we parted on the Baltic this morning I asked him when he intended coming to Pittsburgh and he answered, 'Next Founder's day.' The truth is that Mr. Carnegie has laid great store by the celebration which will be held then. He has closely watched the progress of the new institute and all his hopes are wrapped up in its completion. Next November's celebration will become famous as the re-dedication of the buildings and he looks forward to that as a cardinal date in the institute's history.

"Mr. Carnegie is in good health and came back in the best of spirits. He said in New York that he would miss his Highland golfing. There is no doubt of this, but on the voyage across the Atlantic we encountered stormy weather and had some exercise in maintaining our equilibrium. On a smaller vessel we should have been very much tossed about. Mr. Carnegie is a good sailor and enjoyed the voyage.

"The plaster cast of the diplodocus is one of the most conspicuous exhibits in the British museum and it attracts endless attention among European visitors. It is surrounded by a brass rail and is located at a place where it commands all eyes. In recognition of the gift the Carnegie museum has been presented with bound volumes of all the British museum publications. This comprises a most valuable gift."

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—At President Harper's office today the information was given out that the radium treatment had been abandoned and for the present no medical treatment would be administered, other than tonics to build up the general health.

The head of the University of Chicago was extremely weak, but insisted on sitting for a short time in his reclining chair. He still performs all the duties possible. Professor Judson announced in chapel that he was not the acting president, as Dr. Harper was taking complete charge himself.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Automobiling is one of the best cures for the bodily infirmities due to poor operation of the digestive organs, according to Dr. G. W. McCaskey of Fort Wayne, Ind., who addressed the American Academy of Medicine at a meeting here today. Dr. McCaskey said:

"For recreative effects most persons need some sort of diversion which contains fast motion, and this explains the popularity of automobiling, the beneficial effects of which I know by experience."

HEARST ASKS FOR BETTER GUARD ON NEW YORK BALLOTS

Requests the Governor to Order Them Deposited in National Armories.

MORE FRAUD FOUND

Arrests of Leading New York Politicians Are Expected to Be Made Today.

WIDOW SENDS SOME EVIDENCE

Not satisfied that the votes of New York's citizens are adequately safeguarded against persons who might have motives for tampering with them, William R. Hearst tonight sent a special messenger to Albany to ask consent of Gov. Higgins to have the ballot boxes placed in armories. Reports reached Mr. Hearst which convinced him and his counsel that warehouses were not the proper places in which to store the boxes.

Should Gov. Higgins give his consent, it is likely the much-traveled ballots will be moved tomorrow afternoon.

Following a prolonged conference in the Hoffman house, participated in by John McCullagh and several lawyers, announcement was made late tonight that arrests of men prominent in Democratic circles might be expected any time. Testimony furnished to the law committee and evidence obtained by Mr. McCullagh on his first day in Mr. Hearst's employ, placed the investigators on the trail of some of the so-called "big" men in Tammany. That these men are district leaders was admitted.

Used Dead Man's Name.

Scores of Republican district workers appeared in the Hoffman house headquarters and declared they stood ready to aid in the campaign of investigation and to furnish the legal committee with much evidence of fraud on election day.

From a widow who lives in West Seventy-second street, a letter was received saying she had learned positively that a repeater had voted on the name of her husband, who died the day before election. The vote was the first one cast.

"Had my husband voted," she wrote, "he probably would have cast his ballot against you, but I feel it my duty to apprise you of the despicable methods resorted to by some one."

Additional data, furnished by expert accountants who have been going over the tally sheets, caused Hearst managers to declare that there is not the slightest doubt that a recount will elect Mr. Hearst.

Ten indictments were ordered by the grand jury for alleged violation of the election laws today. These indictments will be filed with Recorder Goff on Monday, and that day the grand jury will again take up the election cases.

Indications today are that the grand jury will be busy the greater part of next week with election cases, and before they are through a number of district leaders may be struggling in the meshes of the law.

Policemen Tell Secrets.

Policemen, examined under oath in the office of Superintendent Morgan during the night, are said to have told things they saw on election day that will cause general surprise when made public. It is said further that the police kept nothing back, but made revelations that will result in wholesale indictments.

Important testimony along the same lines is reported to have been given by election officers in different districts. All of this, it is said, indicated that Tammany threw discretion and caution to the winds.

Former Justice John Palmieri, the defeated Municipal Ownership candidate for judge of general sessions, who was beaten in a fight in the polling place at 259 Madison street shortly before the close of voting Tuesday, appeared at the district attorney's office today, presumably to take some action looking toward the prosecution of his assailants at that time.

Two ballot boxes were found today in a barber shop at 156 Third avenue, one of them full of half-soiled and torn ballots and the other empty. This barber shop was the polling place of the First election district of the Eighteenth assembly district, which is the district of which Charles F. Murphy, head of Tammany Hall, is the leader. Hearst watchers found the two boxes. Deputies of State Superintendent of Elections Morgan took possession of the boxes.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—Alois Gymagy-assy Gamprel, formerly in charge of the Hungarian exhibit at the World's Fair, at one time clerk to the president of the Hungarian parliament, tonight is held in a cell at the city hospital.

Gamprel is said to be suffering from lack of nourishment which has to some extent affected him menially. He says that several days ago he appealed to the chief of police for assistance in leaving St. Louis, but was sent to the city dispensary and from there to the hospital.

NINE MURDERS DOCTOR'S RECORD

Ohio Coroner Holds Physician Who Is Morphine Fiend for Terrible Crimes.

HIS OWN FAMILY CREMATED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

DAYTON, O., Nov. 10.—Dr. Oliver C. Haugh, who is in jail here charged with the murder of his mother, father and brother last Sunday, will probably be called to answer for a series of crimes which, if he is proven guilty, will stamp him a unique figure in the annals of criminology. Being in bad health and separated from his wife, Dr. Haugh was living with his parents eight miles from Dayton. Last Sunday neighbors were attracted by the burning of the home. When they rushed to the rescue they found the doctor in the yard, having dragged himself out, he said, just in time to save his life. His father, mother and brother were incinerated. The fire occurred about 1 o'clock in the morning. Dr. Haugh's account of the tragedy was incoherent and the coroner, after an investigation, saw fit to hold him.

Dr. Haugh is a morphine fiend, who has often been under treatment for the habit. When unable to procure it, his cravings drove him to a frenzy, in which he was violent. After recovering from the attack he retained no memory of his acts.

Since his arrest it has been discovered that while practicing in Lima, O., last year, he was attentive to a Mrs. Mary Toohey, who died mysteriously last April. Her brother is said to have accused Haugh of retaining unlawful possession of some of the dead woman's valuable jewelry.

Coroner Klein of Dayton believes that Haugh has been directly responsible for the death of at least nine persons, principally women. It is charged that a woman with whom he was living in Toledo, O., died suddenly and mysteriously and that afterward he went to Chicago, where he contracted a bigamous marriage with a woman named Patterson, who died later under circumstances that suggested poisoning. There are shadowy allegations of a similar experience in Milwaukee.

Since his arrest Haugh has been in a seemingly dazed condition, indifferent to the death of his relatives or the charges pending against him. His only desire is for the 15 grains of morphine allowed him daily.

ITALIAN FALLS FROM WINDOW TO HIS DEATH

Two Companions Held Pending Inquest—Youth Dies form Assault by Playmates.

Joseph Delegio, an Italian, died at the Homeopathic hospital yesterday afternoon from injuries received by falling from the third story window of the Hotel Roma, 1113 Penn avenue, shortly after midnight. It was first suspected he had been thrown from the window. Investigation revealed he was intoxicated and fell out. John Sozzuta and Frank Pinelli are being held pending the result of the inquest.

Finko Inio, a Greek school boy, aged 10, of 322 Third avenue, Homestead, died at 6:40 o'clock last night at his home. It is said the boy and several playmates were going home from school on Wednesday afternoon, when they got into a fight. The principal of the Third ward school, which the boys attended, separated them. One of the boys is said to have kicked Inio in the stomach. It was reported the boy had been assaulted because he had surpassed the others in his studies.

R. Rosenthal, employed by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, was killed yesterday by falling from a ladder while trying to repair a wire on the Mt. Lebanon line near Castle Shannon. When a car approached it is supposed he became frightened and lost his balance. His skull was fractured. He was 45 years old and is survived by his widow and three children. He lived in Castle Shannon.

POLICE SUPERINTENDENT SUPERIOR TO DIRECTOR

Wallace Will Not Allow Charges to Be Made Against Man Who Assaulted Policeman, and Moore Says He Is Powerless.

"No officer of mine will make a charge against Wiseman."—Police Superintendent Wallace.

"I am powerless to act."—Safety Director Moore.

Richard Wiseman, a Citizens party worker of the Sixth ward, who was arrested three times on election day for fraudulent voting and intimidating voters, was arrested yesterday for creating disorder in Newell's hotel. Wiseman assaulted Policeman Archibald Stonerod and broke glassware in the hotel. A riot call was sent in and a squad of five policeman responded. Wiseman was overcome, but not before he had been beaten up. He was taken to the Homeopathic hospital for surgical treatment. There his language and conduct were so violent, the hospital officials refused to keep him and he was taken to the Central station. When his brother and other friends called on him at the police station, he attacked them and policemen had to go to his rescue. Policeman Stonerod was so badly assaulted he had to go home.

Wiseman is a neighbor of Mayor Hays and a friend of Superintendent Wallace, and has boasted he could do as he pleased. Two years ago he attacked Roger O'Mara in front of Newell's hotel and was arrested. Yesterday morning he entered the hotel and demanded a drink. The bartender refused to give it to him. Wiseman picked up a cut glass sugar bowl and hurled it at the bartender's head. Then the trouble continued until Wiseman was picked up and put in the patrol wagon in spite of his protests that he was "a friend of Wallace." At the station house he was charged with disorderly conduct, but this charge was removed later by Superintendent Wallace.

Wallace was asked if Policeman Stonerod would make information against Wiseman for resisting arrest. To this Wallace replied: "If Stonerod makes a complaint against Wiseman he will be removed from the force. No officer of mine will make a charge against Wiseman. Unless the hotel people make information against him, I will order his discharge."

Director Moore was appealed to by several members of the police force, who said it was all right that Wiseman should be allowed to do as he pleased. To this Director Moore replied that he was powerless to act.

FEDERATION WILL DEMAND CLEAN MAN

Allegheny Church Organization to Be a Factor in Mayoralty Fight in February.

R. H. BOGGS IS SUGGESTED

The Allegheny Federation of Churches met last night in the chapel of the Allegheny Theological seminary in North avenue. The Rev. Dr. D. A. McClenahan was elected president to succeed the Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton, who has left the city.

In a speech in which he outlined the character of a man that would make a suitable candidate for mayor of Allegheny the Rev. Dr. Lindsay named R. H. Boggs. William Reed, who followed Dr. Lindsay, declared that the people of Allegheny are so disgusted with corrupt politicians and grafters that an upright, honest man, if nominated, could be elected mayor without opposition.

The Rev. William I. Wishart said ministers of every denomination should take an active part in politics and should get out and work at the polls. This, Mr. Wishart said, is a civic duty that every preacher should recognize. He urged that every church in the city organize a branch of the federation and go into civic affairs with the determination to put clean, honest men into public offices.

At the suggestion of Mr. Wishart a committee of three was named to confer with the Citizens committee of 70 in Philadelphia, for the purpose of agreeing upon resolutions asking for the passage by the state legislature of a new ballot law. The committee is composed of Robert Ogilvie, Hans Dean and R. S. Stephenson.

At the conclusion of the federation meeting the citizens committee of 25, appointed at the mass meeting in June, convened in the parlors of the seminary. Dr. Lindsay presided. A committee of five was selected to consult with the executive committee of the federation in regard to naming a suitable candidate for mayor of Allegheny. The committee is composed of Dr. Lindsay, W. U. Follansbee, Thomas P. Trimble, J. H. Logan and Thomas D. McCloskey. This committee will meet with the executive committee of the federation on Monday night.

It is not known yet whether the federation will name a man to be taken up by the political parties or whether the federation will suggest to the parties a man who will be satisfactory to the organization. Mr. Wishart had a resolution passed to the effect that the executive committee be instructed to confer with the Republican executive committee in regard to a candidate. It is likely this conference will be held before the federation names a suitable candidate.

RUSSIA DENIES KILLING

prevent a massacre and the loud warnings published by the radical press which favors the organization of a national militia have the appearance of an organized campaign to terrorize the public and to frighten the government into acceeding to the demand. The intellectuals are being told to arm themselves for defense against the "black hundred." These appeals are greatly exciting the masses and might precipitate the bloody tragedy which they seek to avoid. At the Hay Market 12,000 excited peasants were seized with the idea that the Intellectuals were arming against them and began means of defense. The police, under instructions, went among the crowds, quieting them and assuring the peasants that the danger was purely imaginary.

Autonomy similar to that given to Finland will shortly be granted to Poland, thus settling the unrest there.

CAR DASHES DOWN STEEP INCLINE

ONE MAN IS BADLY INJURED

The incline running from Sarah street to Clifton park, Second ward, Allegheny, was wrecked last night at 10:30 o'clock, and David C. Crease of 12 Clifton park was painfully injured about the hips and severely bruised about the body.

The car was descending and Crease was in the waiting-room at the foot of the incline. What caused the accident is not definitely known, but it is presumed the gear wheel was defective and broke. The heavy car plunged through the waiting-room, demolishing it, and knocking Crease down. It dashed across Sarah street and went headlong into the residence of Thomas Callahan, 14 Sarah street. The front of the house was wrecked and every window in the neighborhood was smashed by the concussion.

Despite the general damage done by the wild car, no one in any of the houses was injured. Crease was assisted home.

Engineer John Culiy was at his post at the top of the incline when the passenger car went down. He can give no explanation of the accident. The other car was dragged half way up the incline and left there. Within a short time after the accident scores of people living in Clifton park, who were returning from the theaters, arrived at the foot of the incline, only to realize what a narrow escape they had from death.

CONGRESSMAN ACHESON FAVORS OPEN PRIMARIES

Washington County Leader Is Not in Favor of Strictly Enforcing Party Rules.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MONONGAHELA, PA., Nov. 10.—Congressman E. V. Acheson of Washington in an interview here today declared himself in favor of open primaries. He said:

"I am not in favor of strictly enforcing party rules so as to exclude Republicans who voted the Citizens ticket from participation in our primaries. I have always been an independent Republican myself, and never allied myself with any state boss.

"I have sympathy with those who honestly combat obnoxious machine methods. Much bitterness can be eliminated from our political contests by giving all officers a fixed salary, which should be a reasonable sum. Such a course would lessen the amount of money spent in politics. I believe the next legislature will pass a uniform primary election law and that will cure many of the evils which have been complained of in Pennsylvania.

"The Flinn roads question is settled finally. The good roads movement will go forward. The result of the election in Washington county was, of course, pleasing to me. Our vote was affected by the general situation in the county, and particularly by the upheaval in Philadelphia. The Allegheny bank scandal cost us thousands of votes."

BERRY LOSES TO PLUMMER IN HIS OWN COUNTY

Official Votes of Several Counties Are Completed—Fayette Shows a Heavy Vote.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MEDIA, Nov. 10.—The official vote of Delaware county, the home of Treasurer-elect Berry, is: Plummer, 9,865; Berry, 9,821; a plurality for Plummer of 44. BEAVER, PA., Nov. 10.—Two days' work has not completed the official count of the vote cast Tuesday, there being several county offices yet to count. Berry's majority over Plummer is 1,156. For judge of the court of common pleas J. R. Martin, Republican, received 6,104 votes and R. S. Holt, Democrat-Prohibition-Citizen, 7,082.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 10.—Nearly 20,000 votes were cast at Tuesday's election according to the official count completed this afternoon. Judge Alexander D. McConnell, nominated by the Republicans and Democrats, won over John D. Gill, the Prohibitionist candidate, by 14,37... All Republican candidates for county offices won by majorities ranging from almost 4,000 to 5,800, with the exception of the candidates for county commissioners, the spirited fight for the minority place on the board between David W. Shupe and Robert W. Herbert, the latter being defeated, resulting in many votes being traded. Gains were made by the Prohibitionists.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 10.—The official tabulated returns of last Tuesday's election were given out today at noon. They show that Plummer secured a plurality of 578 in Fayette county. His total vote in the county was 7,395, Berry's 6,816. John Stewart, candidate for supreme court judge, received 13,897 votes. LANCASTER COUNTY HAS A POLITICAL SENSATION

County Commissioner Elected on the Democratic Ticket Refuses to Accept His Office.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LANCASTER, PA., Nov. 10.—The political sensation of the year was sprung today, when it was announced that E. D. Reilly, Esq., who was elected the minority party candidate for county commissioner on Tuesday, would not take office and would remove from the county. At the Democratic county convention Reilly and Eli Hess of New Holland were aspirants for commissionership.

After three ballots Hess withdrew in Reilly's favor and swung his delegates in line for the latter, who, in consequence of this move, secured the nomination. Several weeks later Hess was taken up by the Citizens Independent party, in opposition to Reilly, and it was then openly charged that Reilly gave Hess a note for $1,000 for relinquishing the fight.

After preserving silence for a week or more Hess publicly announced that Reilly had given him a note for $1,000, but he further claimed to offset his action that he never intended to have the note cashed. This announcement was made over Hess' own signature. The reason given by Mr. Reilly's friends for his sensational action is that his conscience forbade his subscribing to the oath of office required before assuming the duties of county commissioner.

BIGELOW WANTS TO CONTROL BODY

Is Making an Effort to Direct Course of Municipal League in Mayoralty Contest.

RODGERS NOT A CANDIDATE

Director E. M. Bigelow is trying to get control of the Municipal league. He wants to prevent that reform organization from taking any part in the mayoralty election which will interfere with his plans. He was busy yesterday.

Bigelow says he has a man in mind for mayor that everyone will be willing to support. At present he is not willing to lift the blanket. There has been some talk of George W. Guthrie, but Bigelow was yesterday sprinkling his prospective candidacy with ice water. Controller John B. Larkin and Mr. Guthrie were in conference during the afternoon.

Former Judge Elliott Rodgers yesterday made this denial of the report he is to be a candidate for governor:

"I am not a candidate for governor, and never have been. I never said I was a candidate and the report that I told my friends that I would be a candidate is not true. So far as the mayoralty is concerned, I stand where I have always stood. I always have been for Charles F. Kirschler and am still for him."

Stengel for Councilman.

Since the victory of Tuesday Republican candidates for councils at the election in February are springing up all over the city, so general is the confidence the Republicans will also be victorious in the municipal contest. J. C. Wasson said yesterday the Republican workers of the Twentieth ward were strongly in favor of George H. Stengel for councils.

"I hope that Mr. Stengel will see his way clear to run. There is no doubt that he would be elected," said Mr. Wasson.

It is claimed for Mr. Stengel that he would get the solid Republican and independent vote and a majority of the Democratic votes in the Twentieth ward. A. C. Ferguson, who was chairman of the Orphans' organization in the Twentieth ward, is also spoken of as a probable candidate on the Republican ticket for councils, but he resides in the same district with Mr. Stengel and would probably not be a candidate should Mr. Stengel run.

Mr. Wasson was asked if he would be a candidate for councils. "I am not a candidate, but if there is a desire on the part of the people to have me go to councils my name might be submitted at the Republican primaries." Mr. Wasson was a member of the common council from 1902 to 1904.

Made Trouble for Witness.

For the purpose of keeping George Rohman, a Republican worker, from appearing against alleged illegal voters, the police arrested him. He was given a hearing before Magistrate Kane on a charge of disorderly conduct. The charge was made by Clara Pitcairn, with whom he roomed. She charged him with calling her vile names. Rohman denies this and says the woman was ordered to make the charge against him.

At the hearing Rohman said he left his room at 140 Washington street. When he got to the front door four policemen were there and they took him to the Center avenue station house. The officers were rough in the manner they handled him, tearing his clothing and cutting his face. Rohman said he was to attend a hearing against some of the Citizens party workers before Alderman Martin yesterday, and when the police learned of this they arrested him. Rohman will testify before Alderman Martin today. Rohman was released by Magistrate Kane.

An information was made by Andrew Lefridge, colored, a resident of the Twentieth ward, before Alderman Toole, charging B. F. Jetter with assault and battery. Lefridge alleges that on election day he was fulfilling his duties at the polls of the Second district, Twentieth ward, when Jetter pushed him from the room, pulling him to the door and attempting to use a handy billy on him, and otherwise abusing him.

Another Election Case.

Patrick Fitzgerald yesterday waived a hearing on a charge of assault and battery and furnished $300 bail to Alderman Toole, for his appearance at court. T. J. Nugent, a Republican watcher at the polls of the Second district, Twentieth ward, made the information against Fitzgerald, alleging that on election day he threw him out of the voting place.

In the case of James B. Glenn, constable of the Seventh ward, who had a hearing on the charge of interfering with an officer before Alderman Martin yesterday afternoon, decision was reserved to allow the alderman to consult with his attorney on a point of law involved. The information against Glenn was made by County Detective John W. Reed, who alleges that on election day Glenn interfered with him when he went to the polls of the Fourth district, Seventh ward, to serve a warrant on John Callen. The information against Callen charged him with assaulting A. Brady on the same day at the polls. Detectives Jerry Lutz and Frank Sonnefeld, who had been with Reed, testified that Glenn had shoved Reed and Lutz away. Glenn denied he had touched the officers, and said he simply told them he was the highest officer there, and if they had any warrants to serve to give them to him and he would serve them. In view of the fact that Glenn was an officer and had a right to serve the papers, the alderman said he would reserve his decision to consult with an attorney as to whether Glenn was guilty of interfering with an officer.

J. Theo. Oppenheim was held under $300 bail to await trial by court on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Jacob Bernstein before Alderman J. A. Martin. Bernstein alleged that while he was at the polls of the Second district, Seventh ward, on election day, attending to his duties as watcher for the Lincoln party, Oppenheim struck him in the face and otherwise abused him.

Will Hellman, J. B. Hershey, J. D. O'Neil, J. J. White, T. C. Jones and William Stewart filed an affidavit for the use of the same Citizens party in McKeesport at the February elections.

Joseph McDonough, Lemuel C. Googins, J. Loudon Campbell, T. H. Miller and John Elmore filed an affidavit for the use of the name Citizens party in the Thirteenth ward in the February elections.

Honors were even and neither was much damaged, although McGinnes had his leg badly sprained in the collision.

BIGELOW SCHEME MAY BE DROPPED

Aspinwall Annexation Ordinance Will Be Reported Negatively on Monday.

MEASURE PROVES UNPOPULAR

"I believe the city administration will abandon the annexation of Aspinwall because of the decisive majority the voters of that borough gave against the Bigelow machine at the election on Tuesday," said Select Councilman E. R. Walters yesterday.

Dr. Walters is a member of the special committee of select council appointed to consider an ordinance for the annexation of Aspinwall to the city of Pittsburgh. This committee held a meeting recently and after hearing the protests of a large delegation of Aspinwall residents and taxpayers, disapproved the measure and ordered it returned to select council with a negative recommendation. The committee has not had a chance to make a report, because Director Bigelow ordered the councils to suspend business during the campaign and no sessions were held. The ordinance, however, will be reported to councils on Monday.

The law requires that 30 days' notice must be given of a special election to vote on annexation and also that annexation of territory must take place on January 1. To permit protests to be filed, to have the court set a date for a special election and to give the required notice of 30 days, it would be necessary to rush the ordinance through councils without further delay, but Dr. Walters believes the heavy majority cast against the Citizens party ticket last Tuesday has changed the mind of Director Bigelow about compelling Aspinwall to join the city.

The avowed purpose of Director Bigelow was to annex the borough so that 2,000 or more employes at the city filter plant, nine-tenths of whom are foreigners, could vote at the mayoralty election in February for the Citizens party candidate. Mr. Bigelow has several times boasted that this was his aim, and these assertions aroused the wrath of the taxpayers of Aspinwall, who objected vigorously. They expressed their displeasure at the polls on Tuesday, when the borough gave a majority of over 200 votes against the Citizens party candidates.

"They would give as large a majority if not larger, against annexation if the question should be submitted to them," said Councilman Walters, "and I believe Director Bigelow will drop the matter now. He would be foolish to persist in attempting to force the borough into the city against the wishes of the taxpayers, who are up in arms against the scheme."

The court on election day sustained the election board of Aspinwall in refusing to allow the filter employes to vote.

Dr. Walters is chairman of another committee that will return another bill to select council on Monday with a negative recommendation. The bill authorizes the letting of a contract for drilling artesian wells throughout the city to cost $10,000. It is a favorite scheme of Councilman Roenigk of the Twentieth ward and was disapproved by the special committee, composed exclusively of physicians, who condemned the idea as impractical and extravagant.

GOVERNMENT TO IMPROVE THE CONSUL SERVICE

Plan Is Arranged for Offering Permanent Careers to Young Men.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—With the double purpose of offering a permanent career in the diplomatic and consular service to competent young men and of improving those branches of the government service so as to make them more valuable than they now are to the business interests of the country the President, at the instance of Secretary Root today announced two new rules. The first of these has not yet taken concrete form, but its substance, as made public, was that hereafter any applicant for appointment as secretary of embassy or legation, must possess a knowledge of at least one other language than English, and must be otherwise examined as to his competency. This rule is closely in line with the English practice and in its development will involve the promotion of the bright young men in the diplomatic service in the degree that they justify it by hard study fitting them for new posts.

The order as to the consular service amends the existing rule which requires the examination of such consular officers as are limited in compensation to the maximum of $2,500 per annum and a minimum of $1,000. In President Cleveland's administration an effort was made to examine all applicants for consular positions, but this was soon abandoned and the limitation now in vogue was adopted. The purpose of the President and Secretary Root is to take the consular service away from political preferment and to make promotion as well as appointment dependent upon absolute merit.

Belasco Suit Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The differences between the management of a business establishment in the basement of the Belasco theater and David Belasco and the Shuberts, proprietors of that playhouse, were today amicably settled and the contempt proceedings against them were dismissed.

WILL ADVISE WITH JUDGES

County Commissioners Seek a Conference on the Purchase of the Church Property.

REDUCE THE ROAD FORCE

A conference of the common pleas court judges and the three county commissioners will be held at noon today to discuss the purchase of the Third United Presbyterian church property. The option expires on November 15.

The commissioners wrestled with the proposition yesterday afternoon. They hold an option on the property. If the purchase is made on November 15, the plot 100x115 feet in Diamond street can be bought for $250,000. If a renewal of the option for another 60 days is wanted, the church will add $15,000 to the price.

The commissioners were undecided as to whether they should purchase at once or if they did take over the property do it by paying the $250,000 or secure it through condemnation proceedings. The question of at once erecting a building on the church and university sites was also discussed. As the erection of the addition to the court house would cause an outlay of at least $1,000,000 and the Soldiers' Memorial will cost $1,250,000, the commissioners did not want to be too hasty in reaching a decision.

Commissioner Evans retires from the board January 1 and I. K. Campbell goes in. All of the commissioners were of the opinion it might be well to delay reaching a decision at least, on the building of the court house addition, until Mr. Campbell takes his seat. It was finally decided to ask all of the judges to meet the commissioners today and give them the benefit of their views.

As is the custom at this time of the year, the commissioners adopted a resolution reducing the force in the road department to the heads of the bureau and the inspectors employed in the repair work. About 15 men were laid off.

CONVENTION DELEGATES.

Officers Are Named for the Big Meeting to Be Held Here on November 24.

The staff and line organizations of the National Guard of Pennsylvania are appointing their delegates to the annual meeting of the National Guard association which will be held in Pittsburgh on November 24. The appointments indicate that there will be a large representation and that there will be many officers here beside those who come as delegates. Gen. John A. Wiley, commander of the Second brigade, has appointed the following delegates from his staff: Maj. S. W. Jefferis, Maj. Frederick W. Reynolds, Maj. Lewis A. Anshutz and Capt. W. O. McNary.

The delegates from the Eighteenth regiment will be Col. Frank L. Rutledge, Lieut. Col. James A. McNary, Maj. James A. Bigger, Maj. A. J. Henderson, Capt. B. L. Succop and Capt. R. C. Woodside. The Fourteenth's delegates will be named next Thursday night. Battery B will be represented by one delegate who will be appointed on Monday evening.

FIGHT OVER POLICEMAN.

Factions in Homestead Council Wrangle About Patrolman's Suspension.

Homestead council got into a wrangle last night over the suspension of Policeman George Brown. The latter was laid off on election day by Chief John Lamb. The two are of different political beliefs. Brown acted as a Republican watcher on Tuesday and got into a quarrel with Chief Lamb, who is a Citizen. Brown's suspension resulted.

The matter was brought before council last night and William Clark made the motion that Lamb be removed from office. This was lost. The case was referred to the police committee after a spirited debate. H. E. Johns, Republican, vigorously attacked J. J. Cavanaugh, chairman of the police committee, who is also chairman of the Citizens organization in the Second ward. The two got into a very belligerent attitude but were brought to order by President T. L. Davis.

RETURNS ON OHIO TICKET ARE STILL UNAVAILABLE

Both Democrats and Republicans Continue to Claim the Election of All Minor Officers.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10.—Complete returns on the state ticket, except for governor, are still unavailable tonight, with the result that both the Republicans and the Democrats continued to claim the election of all minor state officers. Official returns received from 18 counties show that Harris, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, has an average lead in each county of 740 over Herrick for governor.

If this ratio should be maintained in the remainder of the 88 counties in the state, which is thought doubtful, Harris would have a lead of 66,000 over Herrick in the state. This would insure the election not only of Harris for lieutenant governor, but of the remainder of the Republican state ticket, except governor, as Harris apparently received the lowest Republican vote next to Herrick.

Attorney General Ellis and State Treasurer McKinnon say that returns received by them from most of the counties indicate their election by a plurality of 15,000 or 20,000. The belief prevails that the result on lieutenant governor will be close. Lewis Houck of Mount Vernon, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, declared his belief he has been elected.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use. On the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Only Six Weeks Till Christmas.

Fair Margaret.
By F. Marion Crawford.
For twenty years Mr. Crawford has been delighting his readers with novels and romances, gaining in charm and power all the while. This new novel may be said to be a word-portrait.
Published at $1.50.
In our Book Store for $1.06.
All new books in our book store as soon as issued.

PEOPLE have begun to discuss Christmas gifts. Early as it is we have sold quite a lot to be delivered later, and this notice is more particularly to impress upon those who give presents the desirability of making their selections while the lines are complete. There are certain novelties that we gather from abroad that are impossible of duplication. When the line is closed that ends it. Today will be a splendid time to look over gift-things.

Don't forget that this is Children's Day in the Toy Section. We especially request the presence of the younger children of the family. Toyland is more especially for them.

There is just this to be said about frauds on the ballot. In as far as possible they should be prosecuted. There should be no compromise, no fear, no favor. District Attorney Stewart has shown his good faith by convicting offenders of his own party and we are willing to trust him to do it again.

A charge has been made to the district attorney that a speakeasy is operated at Central station. This should be investigated. If the charge be true the case should be dealt with according to law. On the unsworn testimony of one man there will be no assumption that the charge is established—but in connection with the recent reputation of the police bureau it is sufficient basis for an inquiry.

Gov. Pennypacker's Thanksgiving proclamation comes as a reminder of the season and of the good reasons Pennsylvanians have for giving thanks. Their measure of material prosperity is as nearly full as they may ever expect it to be. The soil has yielded abundantly of food, and the industries of the state are at the high tide of activity. For these things, but not for these more than for the multitude of mercies shown, should every inhabitant of this land return heartfelt thanks.

Annexation of Aspinwall will not be urged in councils for the present. In the election last Tuesday the borough gave a decided majority against the Democratic-Citizens alliance, and the temporary employes on the filtration work were not permitted to vote. The Bigelow-Verner-Hays combination has, apparently, concluded Aspinwall would be a disadvantageous possession at the time of the February election. The Greater Pittsburgh is nothing to that combination alongside its desire to retain its hold on the city government.

Rouvier's French ministry met its first trial yesterday, in the resignation of Bertaux, minister of war. The situation is not made sufficiently clear by the brief dispatch announcing the event to decide whether it is a serious blow to the government. The mere resignation of a minister may be disregarded if the provocation be personal dissatisfaction with some detail of policy. It becomes important when the act is inspired by dissatisfaction of a considerable element among the people, affecting general principles of policy.

President Roosevelt yesterday proclaimed two new rules affecting the diplomatic service, both in the line of promoting a progressive, educated diplomatic corps. There is little doubt the foreign service of the country is susceptible of improvement in this direction. But a warning is pertinent. It is not desirable the diplomacy of America should copy too closely that of other countries. It has made for itself a foremost place in the world and some part of this achievement is due to employment of direct methods that, at first, were somewhat shocking to the older diplomatic schools.

Count Witte's trials in the formation of a cabinet are extremely strenuous. It is apparent he has not the complete confidence of the Socialist Democrats, who decline to become identified with his administration at this juncture. This element admits considerable satisfaction with the program for reforms promised, but appears to prefer deeds to words. That is, it desires to see some of the reforms effected before it identifies itself with the new force in Russian affairs. It must be conceded, however, that Witte is making some progress toward the restoration of orderly government.

From Washington it is reported the railroad workmen's organizations may range themselves in opposition to President Roosevelt's program for rate regulation. This may be true, but cannot be regarded as an important development in the situation. The employes of the railroads have no direct interest in the question and trainmen and trackmen have no more knowledge of it than persons not connected with the transportation interests. Railroad employes have been favored by interstate commerce law amendments requiring automatic couplers, mechanical brakes, side rods and other safety devices. The proposed rate regulation does not concern them, being in the public interest, and they will be wise to let it alone. The railroads opposed the safety measures just as vigorously as they are opposing the rate measure, and with probably more good reasons.

Treasury Reform.

An amusing feature of the election aftermath is the objection raised to "treasury reform" executed by the revenue commission. The complaint is that Berry will be deprived of the opportunity to "lift the lid." Thus it appears the organs that denounced Enterprise bank debtors for paying off their notes were not laboring for "treasury reform," per se, but for the election of the Democratic candidate for state treasurer, and an opportunity for him to make sensational disclosures.

It is too bad to disappoint so interesting an ambition. It will be little short of cruel to deprive a man who has promised everything of the pleasure of finding a mare's nest and breaking the eggs. The interest of the public, however, demands as early an investigation of the treasury conditions as is possible and the revenue commission is acting on that principle. If there are any disclosures to make they will be made without reference to Mr. Berry's pleasure, or that of his Democratic supporters. They will be made with sole regard to right and the public welfare.

Marked reforms in the system of treasury administration were inaugurated after the exposures of the Noyes Democratic regime. Further improvements were adopted on the advice of later treasurers. All of these were proposed and enacted by the Republican party. Obviously the system is not yet perfect. Additional remedies are needed and these, too, will be applied by Republicans. The people of this state expect the work and they are not going to be disappointed if it is done before Berry takes office.

For Tariff Revision.

Later returns from Massachusetts contradict the conclusion that tariff differentiation had no effect. Curtis Guild, Jr., candidate for governor, on the convention platform which declared for protective revision, was elected by 30,000 plurality. Gen. William F. Draper, candidate for lieutenant governor, who ran on a personal platform of "stand patism" had such a slight majority over his opponent there is threat of a contest.

Gen. Draper in the convention opposed adoption of the tariff revision plank of the platform. It must be assumed, then, the Republicans of Massachusetts have declared in favor of tariff revision on protective lines. There is no admixture of free trade in this verdict, no indorsement of any free trade devices. It is simply a discriminating vote in favor of prompt rearrangement of the tariff schedules to meet changed conditions, without surrendering any part of the protective principle.

Surmises About Roosevelt.

The ever sedate London Times intimates in an editorial that President Roosevelt could be elected to the same office he now occupies if the Democrats nominated him. Possibly, but not probably. If Mr. Roosevelt stands for anything it is a principle, in fact several principles, and the London Times must know, or ought to be informed, that presidential candidates stand or fall on the platforms of their party.

Whatever popularity Mr. Roosevelt has gained by his public acts has been gained as a party man who in office administers for the whole people. If he should change his party affiliations for a nomination to office he would forfeit the respect of both parties. There are conceivable circumstances under which Mr. Roosevelt might be nominated by both parties and almost unanimously elected if he would accept, but these do not include abandonment of his Republicanism.

London is a safe distance for the discussion of this subject. What the Thunderer will never learn about American politics would fill a large book. In America the year 1905 is far too early to begin any serious consideration of presidential candidates for 1908.

The Ballot All Right.

Now comes the committee of seventy in Philadelphia with a demand for a new ballot law. This demand is absurd. In the election of last Tuesday the voters of the commonwealth demonstrated their ability to handle the present ballot. There is no indication of any considerable number of mistakes. The present ballot is the Australian ballot, plus the party squares at the left. The voter who wants a "pure Australian ballot" can ignore the squares and vote precisely as he would on the ballot as used in Australia. The squares are not a detriment, but an improvement over the Australian ballot.

The Gazette will confess to some admiration for the "vest pocket ballot" used in Pennsylvania prior to the Baker act of 1901. That system admitted of deliberate choosing of candidates and brought into play the manhood of the voter. It was denounced on the ground that voters were coerced by the ease with which their votes could be traced and that bribery was encouraged because the briber could see the goods delivered. These objections had weight, probably more than they should have, and the Baker ballot was the result.

The subsequent amendments have been designed to facilitate the voting of split tickets, until now the voter is given his equal choice of a party vote by one mark or an Australian ballot. The form is a good one. It does not satisfy certain "reformers." Nothing does. They will not be satisfied until the law compels voting of "split" tickets and then they will want something else. They would have the ballot law changed at every session of the legislature, because the changes confuse a large army of voters, each new form serving to disfranchise many good citizens.

There is room for amendment of the election laws to make frauds on the ballot box more difficult and more dangerous. There is room for improvement in the laws governing registration, the holding of primaries and the elimination of public employes from active participation in politics. These reforms, not overlooking severest penalties for attempts at intimidation of voters, will be welcomed, but the present form of ballot is good enough and to be preferred to the confusion incident to introduction of a new form. It is an effective vehicle for registering the popular will. It should be let alone while the lawmakers devise means to protect the honest voter in its use and to prevent the dishonest voter from using any ballot.

The Business Situation.

Stock exchange borrowers paid as high as 15 per cent for call loans yesterday. This is the highest rate quoted for more than two years. The regular business man did not have to pay over 5 to 6 per cent for money, and it was the calling in of loans from stock market borrowers to meet the increasing demands of the business man that caused the advance in rates to the former. There is, therefore, nothing alarming in the situation, except possibly to the speculator who has bought stocks at prices which represent an investment return of say 3 to 5 per cent and is compelled to pay from 10 to 15 per cent for the use of money to carry his load over the period of stringency.

One very striking explanation for the increased demand for banking credit throughout the country is furnished by the report of pig iron production for last month. According to the compilations of the Iron Age the output of the furnaces of the United States exceeded all records in October. The production of the coke and anthracite furnaces amounted to 2,053,127 tons, to which is to be added about 30,000 tons for the charcoal furnaces. The capacity of furnaces in blast on the 1st inst., was estimated at slightly more than 460,000 tons a week. This is 126,000 tons a week more than at the corresponding date last year and 130,000 tons a week larger than at this time in 1902, a year to which we usually refer as registering the high tide of business prosperity.

This activity in pig iron production means that all branches of the trade are active, and that other industries dependent upon the iron trade are busy. The figures also indicate great confidence in the future. They mean expansion in all kinds of business, and this expansion occurs at a time when we are moving to market the largest crops ever harvested. Banking credits are stretched to the utmost limit, which is nearly always the case when confidence is fully established. But banking credits are not elastic enough to cover the requirements of an unprecedented volume of business and at the same time furnish Wall street with the means for carrying on an active speculation in stocks with prices at the highest average ever quoted. It is altogether probable, if the volume of business is maintained, money will not flow back to New York as early this year as in former years, after the crops are moved. If this proves true, then Wall street may be forced on short rations until the exports of breadstuffs and cotton become large enough to turn the international exchange market in our favor and bring about gold imports. Therefore, if there should be further liquidation and decline in the stock market, it would not be significant of any unfavorable change in business conditions. It would mean that banking credits are being withheld from stock market speculators for use of the commercial and industrial world.

Organs of the Bigelow-Verner-Hays combination have offered considerable advice to the aggregation on how to succeed in the February election, but up to date none of them have suggested the resignation of "Buck" Wallace. That might help some.

Since election the Leader has found courage to denounce the Democratic-Citizens administration of Allegheny. It will turn against the organization in Pittsburgh, too, when it is clearly in the minority. A defeated party is no use.

When the Dispatch appeals for a mayor whose backbone will make the real head of the administration, it probably intends to express disapproval of the jawbone heads.

It is a relief to the American public that William Jennings Bryan is abroad, else it might be treated to a proclamation on the results of the recent elections.

Director Bigelow won honors as a prophet by the verification of his warning: "We are up against it!"

Failing to get one leg on each side of the fence comfortably the Dispatch may mount its hobby-horse.

The fellow who is always yelling for a new ballot is the fellow who does not know how to use it.

Hunting election frauds is less exciting than gunning for bear, but more useful to the state.

Balfour is for arbitration and peace, while Chamberlain's voice is for war.

Aspinwall no longer has an attractive aspect for Director Bigelow.

There is a tide in business just now that is not easily stemmed.

Wiseman's riot may be forgiven in view of his political affiliations.

This year was mild. Kansas will have an election next year.

Stand for "Buck?" Tough luck.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

Barkis Is Willing, and So Is the Other Party, but One Waits T'Other.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

There seems to be a misunderstanding between the boys and girls concerning matrimony. One of the boys writes:

"You are right in saying there is a great demand for marriageable women. Speaking for myself, I would much prefer a home to a boarding house, and would make an effort to get one were it not for the difficulty in finding a woman to look after it. I have looked over several attractive ones, but found that they were looking for men with more money than I have, or expect to have soon.

"I have talked with a number of young men on salaries running from $1,000 to $1,500, and they all say they cannot afford to marry on this income.

"A friend of mine married a college girl, one who had taken the cooking course, and all that sort of thing. They tried housekeeping, but his $1,200 salary wouldn't meet the bills, so they sold out at a loss and have been boarding for a year. He says it would take twice his salary to run a house according to college rules.

"There are women who can do better than this, but you have to go to the country to find them. A schoolmate of mine brought a country wife to town two years ago, and they are living nicely on less than $1,000 a year, and saving money, besides what he is investing in life insurance and building and loan association.

"This encourages me to keep on looking and waiting, but I hope I shall not have to wait until I am as gray as some of my bachelor friends."

* * *

One hundred dollars a month is above the average salary of young men. Many are not getting more than half that much, and yet there are those among them who are married and living very comfortably.

Much depends on the willingness of young people to make the best of what they have, and if they manage to live within their means, they will be more certain to get on well than those who live up to the last cent, and get all they can on credit.

A young couple who start out to make their way through life, and to make it honestly, will not find it very difficult to get along on a small income, particularly if the woman in the case has been so brought up that she is careful, saving and resourceful.

It is these qualities that many of our girls are lacking, never having been required to exercise them at home.

* * *

Then comes the other side, with denials, protests and claims.

"You say there is a great demand for marriageable women," says one very earnest writer. "Are we to understand that you mean to say that the girls of today are not marriageable?

"If you do, I beg leave to deny it. There are thousands of young women who are ready to marry the right sort of men. Produce the men and we will produce the women.

"I think I can return the compliment and say there is a great demand for marriageable men, men who don't drink, gamble, swear, smoke and waste their money in wild living.

"I don't blame a girl for not marrying a man who can't keep her in the same style she lived at home. Nor would I marry a man for whom I had to slave more than I do to make my own living.

"The woman who has to do the work of a servant in the home is a drudge, has no time for pleasure and no money to call her own. She would be better single, as a great many married women will tell you."

* * *

May it not be that the young folks are not dealing squarely with each other? There is, to say the least, reasons for believing that they doubt the honesty of each other when it comes to playing the game of matrimony, for most of them regard it as a game, and a game of chance, at that.

As long as it is classed among the games of chance there will be a feeling of uncertainty about it that will keep many people out of it.

Young men contend that young women are not what they seem, and young women declare that young men are deceivers gay, or bold, or bad.

All such charges are foolish, for there are more good men and women than ever before. The trouble seems to be that both are putting their best feet foremost and there is no telling how bad the hinder ones are.

Show both, and step out in true colors, and there will be an end to all this quibbling.

* * *

Mr. Quiet Observer—Three girls here in Waynesburg, and representing many more in Greene county, would like to tell you some of the qualities that are, or that are not, desirable in a husband.

Not being blessed with an abundance of model young men in our town, our ideas may be a little crude, but we are willing to be set right, and will be glad to hear from girls, and young men, elsewhere.

Do you believe a man who fails in little courtesies to girls in his own town would make a model husband?

Are men like this the world over, or is it just a failing peculiar to Greene county?

We think the lecture should be addressed to the bachelors instead of to the husbands, as they are the ones who need to mend their ways before they can possibly induce good women to marry them.

A man should be taught, first of all, respect and courtesy to every woman, and that it is belittling for a man to speak a word of harm of any woman. Also, that the man who stands on the street corner, spits and gossips about every girl who passes could never possibly be any woman's ideal.

It is not enough for a man to be nice to the one girl, but to all, for the respect of the girls of his home town is the best recommendation a man can have. LENA, LAURA AND LILY.

Nearness to New York Accounts for It.

Paterson and Hoboken are the only important towns in the state to elect Democratic mayors. In all the others holding elections this year Republican mayors were chosen and in a number of cities Republicans supplanted Democratic mayors.—Newark Advertiser.

WHEN FATHER RODE THE GOAT.

The house is full of arnica
And mystery profound.
We do not dare to run about,
Or make the slightest sound;
We leave the big piano shut,
And do not strike a note;
The doctor's been here seven times,
Since father rode the goat.

He joined the lodge a week ago—
Got in at 4 a. m.,
And sixteen brethren brought him home,
Though he says he brought them.
His wrist was sprained, and one big rip
Had rent his Sunday coat—
There must have been a lively time
When father rode the goat.

He's resting on the couch today
And practicing his signs—
The hailing sign, working grip,
And other monkeyshines;
He mutters passwords 'neath his breath,
And other things he'll quote—
They surely had an evening's work
When father rode the goat.

He has a gorgeous uniform,
All gold and red and blue;
A hat with plumes and yellow braid,
And golden badges, too.
But somehow when we mention it
He wears a look so grim
We wonder if he rode the goat
Or if the goat rode him.

ENGLISH SHIP READY TO RECEIVE FRIENDS

Big Flagship Has Been Warped Into a Pier in the New York Harbor.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The flagship Drake, of the British cruiser squadron, was warped into the Cunard line pier at Gansevoort market this morning, and she will lie there during the remainder of the English war vessels' stay in this port. It took 35 minutes to get the big warship snugly into her berth. The Drake draws 24 feet of water, and it was necessary to take soundings with the lead every few minutes in order to avoid grounding the ship. The docking was watched with interest by a big crowd. The prince received the newspaper reporters again today in his library aboard the flagship. He shook hands all round and declared he was glad to be at their service for an interview. Then he said that he had received letters from all sorts of people since his arrival yesterday morning, probably more than a thousand. One of these, he said, was from a man who desired his financial assistance in building a boat which would cross the Atlantic in three days. There were others from inventors and the aggregate were from all sorts and conditions of people.

The prince was asked if he feared photographers and the "snapshot fiends." "Oh, no," replied the prince. "Photographers in no way annoy me. If the people desire my picture and the possession of a picture or the excitement of getting it amuses them, they are very welcome, and I assure you that they do not bother me at all."

The conversation switched to conditions in Russia. Again the prince looked thoughtful for a minute, and said: "I am the brother-in-law of the czar of Russia, and an admiral in the British navy. This is what you call real thin ice, in fact, no ice at all, and I'd rather not skate."

Murphy Faces Revolt in Tammany.

Charles F. Murphy did not go to Tammany today, although a crowd of Tammany men gathered there to have a talk with him about the post-election situation. A telephone message came to the hall that Mr. Murphy was "resting." Some of those who called to see him expressed the opinion that this was no time for "resting," and made other remarks which indicated that they are not so enthusiastic about their leader as they appeared to be before the election. There is no open rebellion against Murphy in the organization. This is a time when Tammany men must hang together or hang separately. But anybody who listened to the talk at Tammany hall today could not entertain a doubt that there is general dissatisfaction with Murphy among the men who, not long ago, proclaimed him the greatest leader Tammany ever had.

Makes Big Money "Painting."

A remarkable narrative of theft was told to Judge Rosalsky in general sessions today. During two years, a prisoner confessed, he has stolen from private houses $90,000 to $100,000 worth of valuables. All of the jewelry was pawned on the Bowery within a stone's throw of police headquarters. Since the thief's confession $20,000 worth of goods have been recovered, these having been pawned for $1,900. The robber is Harold Prescott, alias Munn, a painter and decorator. In pursuit of his occupation, he went to many residences, and while working found time to steal. Prescott was arrested more by accident than anything else.

Heartful Toast to Mrs. Sage.

"To each other and one other and that other—Mrs. Russell Sage." This is the toast with which the Emma Willard association concluded its eleventh annual luncheon at the Hotel Manhattan, pledging that "one other" with the fond affection every member feels for the leader who has done so much to make the name of Emma Willard honored. Mrs. Sage's illness is yet of too recent date to permit her to appear in the chair of the association, which is her pride. Mrs. John Craig Havemeyer presided in her stead.

Veteran Shows Youngsters How.

A remarkable feat of engineering has just been completed on West street. The brick wall of the Western Electric Company, which is 135 feet long, 40 feet high and two feet thick, has been moved 20 feet from the main structure to a new foundation. Architects and engineers, all young, said it was impossible to move the great wall. Charles Baxter, a veteran civil engineer, 75 years old, attempted what the younger gentlemen thought impossible. If a crack was made in the great wall, or a single window broken, he said he would forfeit the contract price. He fulfilled his contract.

Million to Be Raised by Jews.

Oscar S. Straus, chairman of the national committee organized by the Jews of the country to assist their suffering brethren in Russia, says that the committee hopes to raise $1,000,000 for the cause. The fund, Mr. Straus explained, is to be used for even broader purposes than the relief solely of the Jews who have suffered from wanton outrages in the domain of the czar. The work of the committee will not be bounded by sectarian or racial lines. Aid will be given to all those who need it.

Take a Peep at Some Money.

The representative of King Menelik and his staff, with an interpreter, called at the United States sub-treasury today and were received by Assistant United States Treasurer Hamilton Fish. After being introduced to Deputy Assistant Treasurer George W. Marlor, they were escorted through the building and into the vaults by Deputy Cashier Hall and Charles M. Wiley, head of the bond division, and permitted to see the millions of dollars of gold stored therein, and with which they were evidently much impressed.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

Five members of the Royal commission of England, appointed to investigate methods in vogue for the feeble-minded, are spending a couple of days here looking into conditions at the institutions in this district. They visited the Western Pennsylvania institution for the insane at Dixmont yesterday, and will leave today for Polk, returning to Pittsburgh late this afternoon and going to Columbus this evening. After a visit to various institutions in Ohio and Indiana during the next fortnight the commissioners will return to England. They have already been in America a month, spending this time in the east.

The members of the commission are W. H. Dickinson, chairman of the London county council; Dr. W. W. Donkin and W. P. Byrne of London, Dr. James E. Dunlop of Liverpool and Mrs. Ellen F. Pinsent of Birmingham. They registered at the Henry for their stay in Pittsburgh last night.

"We are simply making a tour of some of the states to look into methods and conditions of the American institutions for feeble-minded people," said Mr. Dickinson. "We have spent a month in this work and will be in the country about a fortnight longer, intending yet to visit Ohio and Indiana. The Royal commission was appointed about a year ago to improve the methods in these institutions. The visit to America is a portion of the commission's work. We have found your methods superior to many ways, but inferior in others to our own, but our visit to America must be of good result."

Come Here for Pointers.

William Speidel and Edward D. Horgan of the Buffalo chamber of commerce, were in Pittsburgh yesterday inspecting the local chamber and learning of its methods. The Buffalo chamber is engaged in the construction of a 12-story building, and as they want it to be modern in equipment and methods, Mr. Speidel and Mr. Horgan were appointed a committee to inspect the chambers of commerce of the large cities of the country, among them Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and Rochester. Both gentlemen spent yesterday with Vice President George H. Anderson and Secretary Logan McKee of the local chamber. They were taken to the Monongahela club for luncheon, and made a tour of the city's largest industries. They expressed themselves as delighted with the treatment accorded them and said that while Buffalo was sometimes called the smoky city its right to that title might easily be questioned when one saw the many smokestacks and general business activity of Pittsburgh. They said that their trip was really intended as an exchange of ideas and Vice President Anderson voiced that idea, saying that the Pittsburgh chamber had not only given the representatives from Buffalo ideas as to their methods, but had obtained many valuable pointers from them.

Station Work Proceeding Well.

L. Searing of Roydhouse, Arey & Co., who is superintending the construction of the East Liberty and Allegheny stations for the Pennsylvania, went to Philadelphia last night. Mr. Searing said that the work on the East Liberty station, which is to be known as the Penn avenue station of the Pennsylvania, is proceeding rapidly, and that a portion of the station will be ready for use by Christmas. This work was hindered for some time by lack of material, but this has been remedied, and the construction is being pushed along. He said that the work on the Allegheny station will probably consume nine months. The excavation for the foundation has been dug to a depth of 21 feet, but it has been found that this reaches only to the base of the old canal, which does not afford a solid foundation.

BOOKS and BOOKMEN BY GEORGE SEIBEL

SEVERAL books of wide interest have come out during the present week. A story by F. Marion Crawford is always welcome, for he is rarely disappointing, as he was in his last novel, "Whosoever Shall Offend." His new romance, "Fair Margaret," is sure of many readers and will probably please them. It is published by the Macmillan Company. Equally interesting to a large coterie of readers is the new novel by the author of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden." The book is entitled "The Princess Priscilla's Fortnight," and Charles Scribner's Sons are the publishers. Along with these books must be ranked "Told by Uncle Remus," the new Brer Rabbit book of Joel Chandler Harris, published by McClure, Phillips & Co., while the great hit made by "The Garden of Allah" will also assure a large sale for Robert Hichens' new book, "The Black Spaniel," published by the Frederick Stokes Company.

Among really important new books, not fiction, must be noted "The Reconstruction of Religious Beliefs," by W. H. Mallock, published by Harpers; a life of "Sidney Lanier," the southern poet, by Edwin Mims, published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; a "Life of Moliere," by Henry M. Trollope, published by E. P. Dutton & Co.; "The History of American Painting," by Samuel Isham, published by the Macmillan Company; and "Two in Italy," by Maud Howe, published by Little, Brown & Co.

"A good essayist is the pleasantest companion imaginable," Henley assures us, for "your true essayist is in a literary sense the friend of everybody." One is tempted to go even further and to say that the essayist is the true literary gentleman, and that the reading of essays is an infallible touchstone of cultivated literary taste. Even the poets and the readers of poetry must stand back before this aristocracy of the pen, for among the poets there are many whose lutes tinkle but tenuously, many who sing for the meb of the street, many who are read in basement kitchens and sleep among dust-cloths. The essayist, on the other hand, though his garb may be frayed and his purse empty—though he have neither style nor substance—has an air of distinction about him like those Spanish hidalgos who seem to be conferring a favor when they ask an alms. Your essayist may be a beggarly fellow, but he won't beg from any one less than a marquis.

The art of essay-writing, which began with Montaigné, who first used the word in that sense, has engaged some of the most profound and some of the most polished minds of the world. Bacon copied Montaigne's title and became our first English essayist. The long roll of fame which begins with his name contains those of Milton, Addison, Johnson, Dryden, Coleridge, De Quincey, Wilson, Lamb, Hazlitt, Landor, Macaulay, Irving, Emerson, Carlyle, Hawthorne, Holmes, Arnold, Stevenson—names of immortal luster. Elia and the Sketch-Book and the Noctes and the Concord philosophy and Virginibus Puerisque are volumes we would not miss from our shelves—no, not for all the tons of masterpieces an industrious generation of novelists is heaping up as hurdles for the human intellect.

There is something leisurely and uncommercial about the essay, as if there were no bargain-counters or scare-heads upon this spinning ball of ours and never, perhaps, is one reason why the essay seems to have gone into a decline. This is a hurrying, catch-penny age, and the magazines, which once printed the casual effusions of men of genius, now vie with the newspapers in the timely and perishable quality of their wares. It is a far cry from the "Gentleman's Magazine," the first published, to "Everybody's Magazine," the type of the up-to-date monthly: from the gentle Elia and the stately Opium Eater to the pugnacious Lawson and the strenuous Steffens.

Timeliness has its disadvantages, for what is up-to-date now is out-of-date tomorrow, and in five years the fulminations of Lawson will be as obsolete as the literature of the Millerites. The libraries need not keep files of the most modern magazines, for their interest passes with the timeliness of their topics. Amid this straining and screeching to attract attention by some means apart from their merits, there are still occasional examples of devotion to true literary ideals. When the Century magazine printed Henry Van Dyke's "Fisherman's Luck" in the place of honor, when the Atlantic gives many pages to the scholarly papers of Paul Elmer More, when John Burroughs and Miss Repplier and Mr. Howells still find grace with editors, there is hope left both for our magazines and their readers. A stray flower sometimes blooms amid a wilderness of weeds; so literature is sometimes found hidden between celery compound and liver pills.

One of the most delightful of latter-day essayists is Henry Van Dyke. His new volume of "Essays in Application" discusses a great variety of topics from the agonial question, "Is the World Growing Better?" to the modern aspects of "The Flood of Books." The paper on "Property and Theft" is a lucid and logical refutation of communism; that on "Publicomania" a caustic castigation of notoriety-seekers; and half a score other essays touch upon various phases of political, social, religious or literary life. But perhaps the admirers of Dr. Van Dyke will be most pleased to see the new edition of "Fisherman's Luck," with the illustrations of F. Walton Taylor. This essay should be perennially popular. The fine urbanity of Stevenson mingles with the rollicking spirit of Kit North in a rare blend. "Fisherman's Luck" and its eleven companion essays are literature of the highest quality.

HENRY VAN DYKE,

Paul Van Dyke's "Renascence Portraits" transcend the scope of the ordinary essay and should rather be classed among literary and biographical studies. He is the brother of Henry Van Dyke, and a writer of scholarly requirements and a splendid style. Whether his subject be Pietro Aretino, who has been called "the Caesar Borgia of literature," or Thomas Cromwell, the great light of church and state under Henry VIII., or Maximilian I., the most imperial figure in the latter days of the Holy Roman Empire, his pages are both illuminative and impressive. Students of the Renascence and lovers of literary or historic by-paths will read Prof. Van Dyke's triple monograph with equal interest and pleasure.

Mr. More's "Shelburne Essays," of which the third series is now before the public, represent the highest reach of American literary criticism in our day. Perhaps Lowell's bookish essays are the aptest parallel. More writes with wide knowledge and critical acumen about Cowper, Whittier, Sainte-Beuve, Swinburne, Browning, Byron, Sterne, Shorthouse and others—always scholarly, never dry, sane in his views and vivid in his style.

Mr. Marvin's papers are more fugitive and ephemeral in character, but there are many things among them not to be missed. The screed on "Stevenson and Father Damien" ought to provoke nearly as furious retort as Henley's onslaught upon R. L. S. The little pastels on "The Sonnet," "Forgotten American Poets," "Stage-Fright" and "The Taste for Scandal" are readable and full of meat. The opening essay and that on Hafiz are the most substantial and solid things of a volume that one may dip into at any time and find a pearl or two worth the venture.

The Rev. Mr. Dawson is chronological and serious-minded. He begins with the "Father of English Fiction," with Daniel Defoe, and brings his survey down to George Meredith, Thomas Hardy and Mrs. Humphry Ward. There are chapters on Richardson, Jane Austen, Scott, Thackeray, Dickens, the Brontes, George Eliot, Reade, Kingsley and Stevenson. Mr. Dawson's estimates are in every case unimpeachable, his style lucid, his knowledge comprehensive, and his book makes a safe and pleasant guide through the labyrinth of English fiction. It contains more information than any similar work, and is broader in scope than Bliss Perry's lectures on the same subject.

Mr. Burdick, who is the author of one work on "Magic and Husbandry," delves into such deep matters as "The Antiquity of Our Ethical Ideals" and the relations of Jack and Jill to the waning moon, "Epics before the Iliad" is the most coherent and significant of the studies, but all of them are sheaves of curious lore, culled from fields of Egyptology, Assyriology and Ethnology. He has been somewhat more successful in compiling materials than in co-ordinating them—his culinary prowess is greater than his digestive powers.

Two new volumes of the Biographical Stevenson embrace some of his happiest work. The papers on "Talk and Talkers" savor of Hazlitt; that on "The Character of Dogs" reminds one of Lamb; everywhere is the easy flow, the ruddy geniality, the gentlemanly tone of the olden days. The "Essays of Travel" include his "Edinburgh," "Roads," "On the Enjoyment of Unpleasant Places," and "Days in Winter," with half a score more; the six "Essays in the Art of Writing" give his views upon Style, Realism, Books and kindred literary topics. To praise these volumes were "to gild refined gold or paint the lily."

President Cole of Wheaton seminary writes pleasantly in a minor ethical strain. He tells us that "what counts is the good life; there is no other worth living." This is clever, but hardly original. The whole volume is in this key. The book belongs to that current of American literature which had Emerson for its headwater, and through the delta of whose estuary the Ralph Waldo Trines and Edward Howard Griggses meander with diminished force. They reflect the same sky, but the waters are not so clear and fresh, and they move because they are pushed by the waves behind. No disparagement of Pres. Cole's book is intended—it is a good one of its class. But it is only one of a great crowd.

NEW ANIMAL BOOKS.

Animal Heroes. By Ernest Thompson Seton. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 262 pages, illustrated. Price, $2.00.

Red Fox. By Charles G. D. Roberts. Boston: L. C. Page & Co. 340 pages, illustrated. Price, $2.00.

The Race of the Swift. By Edwin Carlile Litsey. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. 151 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.25.

The Wild Animals we have met are getting to be wonderfully tame. What is more, our observations in the jungle and on the range tend to a conclusion directly opposed to Darwin's theory of the origin of species. He held that all varieties are descended from one stock; research in literary zoology, however, indicates that every stock is tending to produce the same variety. Prof. Roberts' Red Fox and Mr. Seton's Gray Wolf are very much alike in their ways of thinking and in the adventures the world has in store for them. Mr. Litsey also has a fox and a wolf who betray the same tastes and tendencies. And, as if in a spirit of irony, Julia A. Schwartz has written a series of animal juveniles, among which we meet the same fox and the same wolf before they are grown up.

The animal story was a good thing when Thompson-Seton, who was then Seton-Thompson, discovered it. Perhaps it was Professor Roberts who discovered it, for I think "Earth's Enigmas" was published a year or two before "Wild Animals I Have Known." Perhaps they ought to rank as codiscoverers, like Darwin and Wallace in regard to the theory of natural selection, or like Galle and Adams in regard to the discovery of the planet Neptune. Or perhaps they ought both to be discredited, and the honor given to Aesop, whose animals were really more up-to-date than the present aggregation of sophisticated quadrupeds and eloquent crustaceans. One of the latest books of this variety records the conversations of a jellyfish cast upon the beach. No wonder Pythagoras wouldn't eat oysters!

It was a good thing when first discovered—the new-fangled animal story—but it is being worked to death. Mr. Seton's Reindeer and Lynx, his Slum-Cat and his Homing Pigeon are portrayed as well as he portrayed Lobo and the rest, but we have been surfeited with them and the savor is gone. Professor Roberts' animal romance seems rather long-drawn-out. Mr. Litsey's corral contains some interesting creatures, but we have met them before, too often, and now they bore us. To show the sameness between all these volumes it is only necessary to mix up the chapter heads. Perhaps the author of each book would be puzzled to pick his own out of such an assortment as

The Spoiler of the Folds.
The Red Scourge of the Forests.
The Passing of King Ren.
The Worrying of the Buck.
The King of the Northern Slope.
The Guardian of the Flock.

Miss Schwartz's book is the most refreshing of the four. It goes back to natural history, rescuing some of the animals from the psychological sinuosities of Henry James. Young folks will read "Wilderness Babies" with interest and learn something about wild animals' ways—bat and mole and squirrel, seal and panther and whale, with many more. The illustrations are from drawings by John Huybers, which also deserve much praise for their graphic detail, in distinction from the impressionistic halftones of Mr. Bull in Professor Roberts' and Mr. Litsey's volumes and Mr. Seton's in his own.

Let it be understood that these animal stories are on the whole, as good as those that have gone before. In some respects, also, they have diverged into new fields. But the literary zoo, as an institution, ought to be closed for a while.

GOOD BOOKS FOR BOYS.

Tales of the Fish Patrol. By Jack London. New York: The Macmillan Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 213 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

An Island in the Air. By Ernest Ingersoll. New York: The Macmillan Company. 307 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

The Story of the Champions of the Round Table. By Howard Pyle. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 329 pages, illustrated. Price, $2.50.

In Search of the Castaways. By Jules Verne. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company. 320 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

Pinky Perkins—"Just a Boy." By Capt. Harold Hammond, U. S. A. New York: The Century Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 327 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

The Adventures of Harry Rochester. By Herbert Strang. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. 418 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.60.

The Rival Campers. By Ruel Smith. Boston: L. C. Page & Co. 338 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

The boy who will find among his Christmas treasures any of the seven books here grouped together may well be envied. Stories of adventure by Jack London and Ernest Ingersoll, the wonderful tales of King Arthur's knights retold and illustrated by Mr. Pyle, and a thrilling romance of travel by Jules Verne will tempt even an adult appetite. Mr. Strang is regarded as the legitimate successor of Henty; Captain Hammond and Mr. Smith are newcomers whose work is full of rare excellency and charm.

The adventures Jack London writes about were his own. He was a fighter even at 16 and he formed an invaluable recruit to the forces of the United States Fish commission in San Francisco bay, a body of water so large that it has a pirate population of its own. "Tales of the Fish Patrol," relates Mr. London's experiences during the year or two of his service. That he had previously been one of the lawbreakers whose depredations he undertook to suppress did not make him any less valuable.

Ernest Ingersoll's book might have been written by Verne himself. The boys and girls who find the "Island in the Air" referred to in the title were in search of neither sport nor romance, down on the borders of the Navajo country, 50 years ago. They came thither on their way to California; becoming separated from their elders, they find themselves marooned upon a desert island in a sea of blue air, and being brave, resourceful and jolly, they acquit themselves with credit in their adventures. It is a fascinating book about the Mesa country.

Howard Pyle's large volume with his own illustrations is similar to his King Arthur and Robin Hood books, which have met with so warm a welcome. "The Story of the Champions of the Round Table" continues the story of "King Arthur and His Knights," relating the further adventures of Sir Launcelot of the Lake, Sir Lionel of Britain, Sir Tristram of Lyonesse, Sir Lamorack of Gales, Sir Percival, Sir Kay and all the other valiant heroes of that gallant assemblage. How the pulses leap and the heart beats high as one pores over the old stories told by Sir Thomas Malory, with their lessons of courage and virtue and noble endeavor! Of course every boy will read the book with interest, but unawares he will be lifted to a higher plane of life and thought. It will toughen the muscle of character as well as attune the mind to things that are lovely and of good report.

Jules Verne's book, "In Search of the Castaways," is the same that is generally known as "The Children of Captain Grant." It tells the story of how Captain Grant was lost and how his children and friends devoted themselves to finding and rescuing him. The book, while independent, is a sort of link between "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," and "The Mysterious Island." It has all the charm of "Robinson Crusoe" added to the fascination of travel and adventure in South America, Polynesia and other strange and barbarous climes. Not the least charm is in the illustrations—170 of them—not the conventional full-page half-tones, but engravings in the text, reminding one of the weird spell exercised by the pictures in the old geographies.

Captain Hammond's "Pinky Perkins" is full of pranks, but he is a wholesome and genuine boy, overflowing with fun and mischief, yet never forgetting nor transgressing certain sturdy ideals of honor, which counted anything mean or dishonest impossible. He is remotely related to Thomas Bailey Aldrich's "Bad Boy," but that is an honor, not a reproach.

Mr. Strang's "Adventures of Harry Rochester" is a tale of the days of Marlborough and Prince Eugene. "In writing this book," says Mr. Strang, "I had three aims. First, to tell a good story, that, of course; secondly, to give some account of the operations that resulted in one of the most brilliant victories ever gained by British arms. Thirdly, to throw some light—if, indeed, it may be, but as clear as the circumstances of my story admitted—on life and manners two hundred years ago."

Mr. Smith's "Rival Campers" describes the doings of a party of typical American lads, courageous, alert and athletic, who spend a summer camping on an island off the Maine coast. Yacht-racing, canoeing and camping culminate in the discovery and capture of a gang of daring robbers; but the influence of wholesome outdoor life in the development of manly character is well brought out.

OUR ANTILLEAN ISLAND.

Political Development of Porto Rico. By Edward S. Wilson. Columbus, O.: Fred J. Heer. 156 pages, illustrated.

Mr. Wilson was appointed United States marshal of Porto Rico by President McKinley, reappointed by President Roosevelt, and served in that capacity for nearly five years. His little book is based upon careful study of the conditions and intimate acquaintance with the public men of the island. He sketches the rise of the sentiment for autonomy under Spanish rule and tells how it was rigorously repressed by prison and torture. Then he describes the formation of political parties as a consequence of Sagasta's reforms, an alignment which continues to the present day. The difficulties encountered by Gens. Brooks and Henry, the military governors, are presented very forcibly, and then the author takes up present conditions. He declares that the greatest grievance of the islanders under the present regime is the appointment of North Americans to nearly all the important offices, and that the desire for complete home rule is well-nigh universal. Loyalty to Spain was always a lukewarm sentiment, and the soil is congenial to real American patriotism if such concessions are made as will allow the people to direct their own affairs. The Foraker act is regarded merely as a probationary expedient. Mr. Wilson states the case clearly and convincingly, and his book is a contribution of real value to our vexed colonial problem.

GIBSON AND M'CUTCHEON.

Our Neighbors. By Charles Dana Gibson. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. Price, $4.20.

The Mysterious Stranger and Other Cartoons. By John T. McCutcheon. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. Price, $1.50.

The annual Gibson book shows the inventor of the famous girl in his happiest mood as pictorial social satirist. Such drawings as "Seeing the Flatiron," "Asking the Old Folks," "The Morning After" and "An Unappreciative Audience" stamp Mr. Gibson as the American De Maurier, though he has a grace and distinction that place him even above De Maurier's Bohemian art. Mr. Gibson's technique becomes more finished with the years and so also his humorous perception seems to become keener. This is his tenth book and in most respects it is the best of them all.

Mr. McCutcheon is a cartoonist of another kind; it will not do to place him upon a lower pedestal, for in his metier he is just as eminent. His cartoons nearly always embody that felicitous marriage of a clever idea to vivid drawing which is the perfection of caricature. The volume contains over 150 pictures contributed during the past year or so to the Chicago Tribune. It takes its name from Mr. McCutcheon's almost historic drawing made after the last presidential election, picturing the state of Missouri, a deserter from the solid south, and the cynosure of all eyes, as the self-conscious "new boy" in the Republican ranks.

A JEROME OF OUR OWN.

Slices from a Long Loaf. By F. C. Stifel. Pittsburgh: Bissell Block Publishing Company. 221 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.25.

Mr. Stifel is a Pittsburgher richly dowered with both patriotism and humor. His book reminds one very much of Jerome K. Jerome's "Three Men in a Boat"—it is as if the Three Men, "to say nothing of the dog," had embarked on the fluvial area of Allegheny county instead of the classical Tamesis we first heard of in the writings of J. Caesar. But Mr. Stifel is not a copyist of Jerome, any more than Jerome was a copyist of Mark Twain's early books; it is rather due to the same whimsical outlook upon life, the happy faculty of seeing things as they are, and extracting sunshine from every chance of change. It would be difficult to say what Mr. Stifel's book is about—there is everything in it from fish stories to Teutonic grammar, from dishwashing to mythology, from oleaginous lore to the Allegheny county poor farm. One thing it lacks—one only—there isn't a dull page in it. Even the description of plate-glass manufacture and the oil well history are rendered most interesting. Mr. Stifel deserves to be decorated as the Strabo of the Greater Pittsburgh, and his "Long Loaf" should be devoured by every one proud of this section and not averse to a smile.

LITERARY NOTES.

McClure, Phillips & Co. announce for early publication a volume by Washington Gladden under the title of "The New Idolatry." The new idolatry is the worship of money, which forms the main theme of a series of discourses. In the first it is taken up specifically under the heading, "Tainted Money."

"The Garden That I Love" is to appear in a luxurious new edition with 16 pictures reproduced in colors from paintings by Spencer Ingood, R. I. This is the best known of Alfred Austin's works, and its perennial popularity makes it seem likely that this new edition will be a favorite for holiday presents.

There seems to be a pronounced Byron revival in the literary world today. We have had at least three recent novels founded on his lurid romantic career, including that by Mrs. Humphry Ward; we have his "Confessions;" and now we have a handy new edition of his works, complete in one volume, carefully edited by Paul E. More. This volume appears in the well-known Cambridge editions of British and American Poets, published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

One of the notable biographies of the last decade was "Alfred Lord Tennyson; a Memoir by His Son." In interest it ranks with Morley's "Life of Gladstone;" and it has had a great popularity in its original two-volume form, although the price was almost prohibitive to the ordinary book buyer, who will not often pay $10 for a single work. Notwithstanding this, eight editions were sold out. The Macmillan company has now issued a new edition in a single volume, at $1 net, which places the work within reach of everybody—and everybody should read it.

The Macmillan Company announce also new and cheaper editions in one volume of Marion Crawford's "Southern Italy and Sicily, and the Rulers of the South," and "Ave Roma Immortalis," both of which are profusely illustrated. They have also published in response to popular demand a paper-bound edition, at 25 cents net, of Edgar Gardner Murphy's "Problems of the Present South."

A new popular illustrated edition of "Ramona," Helen Jackson's famous romance of Southern California, has just been published by Little, Brown & Co. Its distinctive feature is a series of full-page plates, and numerous interesting and suggestive chapter headings, from drawings by the noted artist, Henry Sandham, who some years since accompanied Mrs. Jackson to California, and was with her when she planned "Ramona." Mr. Sandham's original sketches were drawn upon the scene of the story and embody suggestions made by the author. This new edition of "Ramona" is called the "Pasadena Edition," and contains an interesting semi-biographical introduction written by the late Sarah C. Woolsey, better known by her pen name "Susan Coolidge."

"Ramona" has always stood in the front rank of American fiction. It long since became an American classic, and has given its author lasting fame. The Atlantic Monthly styled the author "a Murillo in literature," and Charles Dudley Warner said that "Ramona is one of the most charming creations of modern fiction."

GERARDY WINS MORE LAURELS

PLAUDITS FOR CONDUCTOR

The audience at the Pittsburgh orchestra concert at Carnegie Music hall last evening set emphatic approval upon Mr. Paur's choice of a "people's program." The program was delightfully chosen, appreciated alike by the classicists and those who make no pretentions to a knowledge of orchestral music, and the performance was among the best to the credit of the Pittsburgh orchestra.

Gerardy was the soloist, and this city has always regarded him as one of the most welcome of the many artists who play or sing here in the course of a season. He has not been heard here for several years, and in that time his art has developed considerably. He still has the same seductive tone, perhaps a little larger, and it may be that his technic is improved, but he has gained noticeably in repose and authority, and his performance last night may be taken as an example of that which is best in 'cello playing. With the orchestra he played the Saint-Saens concerto, and with piano accompaniment three small numbers, the familiar Bach aria, an arrangement of Schubert's "Wiegenlied," and a brilliant scherzo by Popper. The first two numbers of the group gave him an excellent opportunity to display his fine, singing tone, and the last number provided the pyrotechnics missing from the quieter selections.

Concerts Beautifully Done.

The concerto was beautifully done, both as regards solo and accompaniment. With a 'cellist inferior to Gerardy a large share of the attention last night would have been given to the orchestral accompaniment of the concerto, which is a fine example of Saint-Saens finesse in orchestration.

The Mozart overture is a difficult number for the opening of a concert, on account of its speed and delicacy. The orchestra was a little nervous at first, but as the overture progressed it improved and the last half was as dainty as could be asked. Mr. Paur and his men gave a fine account of the fifth symphony of Tschaikowsky, which was the most important orchestral number on the program. Too often conductors lose sight of the general plan of the first movement of this symphony, and are carried away by the enthusiasm which it so easily generates, but not so with Mr. Paur, who had it well in hand and brought out all there was in the score. The second movement is without doubt one of the most beautiful to be found in any symphony, and justifies James Huneker's calling it "a dell of nightingales." It gives the first horn and the leaders of the woodwind sections unusual solo opportunities, which they improved last night to the best advantage. Mr. Paur made much of the waltz movement, and the finale was as riotous as the composer intended it should be.

Conductor Paur Recalled.

Each movement was heartily applauded, and at the close of the symphony Mr. Paur was recalled several times, all of which proves that the symphony was received with an enthusiasm rarely accorded such a work at a Pittsburgh orchestra concert.

The "Burial of Ophelia," symphonic poem by Bourgault-Ducoudray, was heard for the first time at these concerts. It is quite short, very modern in harmony and very beautiful in orchestration. Its quiet measures were a decided relief to the general stress of the orchestral program. Saint-Saens was again represented in the second half of the program by his "Dance of Death," which was in turn gay, sarcastic and gruesome and Mr. von Kunits impersonated the ghastly fiddler with great unction. Liszt's second Rhapsody was the final number, and Mr. Paur gave it a more Hungarian reading than that to which we have been accustomed. Occasionally the orchestra had a little difficulty in adopting his rapid changes of time, but the performance was one of more than ordinary interest. The same program will be repeated this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Tickets may be had either at downtown box office before noon, or at the hall before the concert. Next week Mr. Paur will be the soloist, playing Busoni's arrangement of Liszt's "Spanish Rhapsody" and a pair of Chopin mazurkas.

DIRECTORS SAY BONDS WERE MET

Bank Board Avers State Treasurer Checked Out Entire Amount Bonded.

EXAMINER MOXEY GOES EAST

Preliminary steps were taken yesterday in the suits to be entered by the directors of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny against the state treasurer, to prevent collection of the amount of the bonds given by the directors for state money placed on deposit in the bank.

The action is in the form of four petitions asking for the opening of the judgments filed by State Treasurer Mathues. The court granted a rule on the plaintiff to show cause why the judgment should not be opened and the petitioners let into a defense. The case will go down on the next argument list, unless it is called prior to that by an arrangement between counsel for both sides.

The attorneys who appear for the plaintiff are W. B. Rodgers, Thomas P. Trimble, J. Rodgers McCreery, J. S. Ferguson, W. A. Sipe and George E. Shaw. Attorney Thomas M. Marshall, counsel for the state treasurer, did not appear to file any objections to the petitions, and said later in the day he could not say at present what action he contemplated.

The petitions recite in detail the history of state deposits in the Enterprise bank since August, 1898, and name dates when certain amounts of state money were placed in the bank. In defense it is said the bonds given were for specified sums at certain times and that subsequent to the signing of the bonds, the state had withdrawn the funds covered by them. This, it is said, completes the tenure of the bonds and closes the responsibility of the directors. In brief, the petitioners maintain that prior to the closing of the Enterprise bank, the state treasurer had at various times checked out every dollar of state money that had been previously bonded by the directors. Should this be proved and held to be legal, it would exonerate the directors from reimbursing the state for the $1,022,000 state funds on deposit in the Enterprise when its doors were closed.

Attorneys John Marron and S. Mehard have had no conference yet with the depositors' committee of 10 that has authority to engage counsel and start proceedings that have for their object the protection of the interests of the depositors of the bank. Mr. Marron said yesterday something would be done next week. He intimates that an examination of the books of the Pennsylvania Development Company may reveal to what extent that corporation and its allied interests are responsible for the condition of the bank.

Assistant District Attorney Gibson said yesterday that any assistance the depositors' attorneys might furnish the federal government in the prosecution of the examination into the affairs of the bank would be gratefully accepted. It is his belief that counsel for the commonwealth and for the depositors can work in harmony in a common cause.

Special Examiner Moxey will return to Washington today and will have a conference with Comptroller of the Currency W. B. Ridgely. It was said at the national treasury department yesterday that Mr. Moxey was expected there Saturday and would likely have some kind of a report to offer to the comptroller, although Mr. Moxey is working under the direction of the department of justice. None of the report will be made public, according to Assistant Attorney General M. S. Reynolds, who has charge of the case for the department of justice. It is probable that Mr. Moxey will be given several assistants next week, so the examination of the bank's accounts can be hurried to completion.

METROPOLITAN IS NOW ON THE RACK

Big Company Donated to Campaign Funds as a Moral, Rather Than Political, Move.

TESTIMONY MOSTLY TECHNICAL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Closing the sessions of the week today the Armstrong committee of insurance investigation has behind it a mass of details and figures which, while of apparently little interest to the laity, is of inestimable value to the committee. The greater part of the week has been devoted to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the administrations of President Hegeman and James M. Craig, the actuary of the company, being of a most technical nature. When adjournment was taken today the committee had not finished the examination of President Hegeman and he will be called again next week.

President Hegeman said his company had made but two campaign contributions and they were in 1896 when $1,000 was given to the Palmer and Buckner gold Democrat managers and $1,000 to the Republican national committee. These contributions were made, he said, with the approval of the finance board and were more a moral than a political move to assist in defeating the 16 to 1 heresy.

Just before the hour of adjournment today Mr. Hegeman was excused and Joseph Howard, Jr., a writer who has been employed by the Mutual Life, was called to the stand. He identified vouchers that he had signed for money received for writing advertisements and reading notices for the company. Mr. Howard afforded much amusement by his declaration that his only regret was that he could not sign more of these vouchers. His only complaint was that he was not paid enough for his work. This, too, was the complaint on the witness stand of Charles Smith, who also does writing for the Mutual Life and receives $8,000 a year for it.

Mr. Howard said he had been employed 30 or 40 years by the Mutual Life, but the vouchers went back only to 1899. There were ten of these vouchers aggregating $16,625. Mr. Howard denied that he had ever sent any dispatches by wire and was very strenuous in his assertion that he had never written a line about insurance for any paper on which he was employed, characterizing it "as a dirty trick."

William Barnes Sr., formerly of Albany, who now resides at Nantucket, appeared before the committee at his own request and was the first witness of the day. Mr. Barnes' name appeared in the investigation several weeks ago when vouchers were produced for legal services. Mr. Barnes explained his connection with the insurance companies, answered the questions put to him and when his examination had been concluded asked to be allowed to make a statement. He was given the privilege and had proceeded but a little way when he was stopped by Senator Armstrong because Mr. Barnes' statement was an argument in defense of insurance companies along the lines brought out in the investigation.

NEW LECTURERS FOR TECH SCHOOLS

Scientific Sanitation, Hygiene and Simple Surgery Added to the Course.

STUDENTS GIVE A CONCERT

A course in scientific sanitation, hygiene and simple surgery will be provided the students of the Carnegie Technical schools. Before any young man is graduated from the institution he must qualify in these branches, Director Arthur A. Hamerschlag proceeding on the principle that no engineer is prepared to take an executive position unless he has first learned how to properly take care of his own body. In case of accidents it is held that he should have some knowledge of rendering first aid to the injured. This part of the technical school training, in the words of the director, will be "rather stiff."

Director Hamerschlag yesterday announced the medical advisors and lecturers for the day school of applied sciences. The lectures will be given at regular intervals and will be included in all the regular courses. Dr. P. J. Eaton will lecture on "Hygiene of the Body," Dr. Hartley Anderson will lecture on "First Aid to the Injured," "Simple Bandaging," etc. The lectures on sanitation will be delivered by Dr. J. L. Johnston.

The following instructors have been appointed for the night classes of the school of applied sciences.

Elementary Physics—George W. Allyn, A. M., M. D., University of Michigan, who for four years occupied the chair of natural science in the Ft. Wayne High school, and six years in the Pittsburgh Central High school.

Mechanical Drawing—Curtis Allen Tucker, M. E., Worcester Polytechnic institute; formerly with Pope Bicycle Co., and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

Architecture—Edward Brown Lee, A. B., B. S., Harvard university and Ecole Beaux arts, Paris, France; at present connected with T. E. Bliquist and E. B. Lee, architects.

The web of Scotch plaid which will be made into Carnegie tartans to be worn by the students as their school colors is expected to arrive in Pittsburgh from the Scottish manufacturer today. The students have been eagerly expecting this and after their second cross-country run yesterday afternoon some new yells were practiced. The young men hope to make a choice and to greet the tartan with the permanent school "holler."

A new upright piano was installed in the school this week and a part of the day's regular exercises now is to sing American patriotic hymns in lieu of chapel exercises in the morning. There are a number of good pianists and vocalists among the students. In the late hours of the afternoon they are allowed the use of the piano for their own diversion and yesterday there was a fine impromptu concert. Of course the boys like to relax a little and were generous in their patriotism, singing "God Save the King" and "Die Wacht Am Rhine" with "America," "Annie Laurie" and "Everybody Works But Father."

THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists, and that full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co., is plainly printed on the front of every package. Regular price, 50c per bottle.

TELEPHONE MEN END CONVENTION

Banquet at Monongahela House Is Enlivened by Many Speeches.

RESOLUTIONS ON FEDERAL

With the banquet last evening at the Monongahela house, the second annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Independent Telephone association came to an end in a blaze of oratory. Close up to midnight the representatives of Pennsylvania and its neighboring states told the story of the struggle of the independent companies to furnish telephone service despite the efforts of the Bell concerns, and in nearly every case the speech of the independent representative was one of obstacles overcome, rather than the cry for help.

Particular interest was aroused by the fact that in the forenoon session of the association there had been brought up the case which most of all interested the independent telephone companies of Western Pennsylvania. This was the Federal Telephone Company, in regard to which the following resolution, offered by C. E. Wilson, general manager of the Keystone Telephone Company of Philadelphia, was unanimously adopted:

"It is resolved by the members of the Pennsylvania State Independent Telephone association, assembled in convention at Pittsburgh, that the Federal Telephone Company, by their acts and deeds in every respect relating to independent telephone companies, have proven to our entire satisfaction, beyond the possibility of doubt in our minds, that they are not an independent company in the true sense of the word, and that they are allied, directly or indirectly, with the Bell company, and that their operations have tended to impede rather than assist in the development of the independent interests. This resolution refers to the company which is controlled by Mr. Fred DeLand and associates.

John S. Weller, vice president and general counsel of the Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone Company, presided as toastmaster at the banquet last evening. Following the discussion of an excellent menu there came a series of speeches in which not only Western Pennsylvania, but the entire state and other states interested, took part.

Many Telephone Men Speak.

When demi-tasse and cigars had been reached on the menu, Senator Weller called upon M. C. Watson, former president of the Indiana Telephone Company of Indiana county, Pa., to make the first speech. Mr. Watson exhorted the independents throughout the state to unite in the general movement for the union of interests to render all parts of Pennsylvania accessible for independent telephone subscribers.

J. W. Beers, general manager of the Home Telephone Company of Ft. Wayne, Ind., told of the difficulties that had overtaken the Indiana independents, first in the deal made by Hugh Dougherty and secondly in the death of S. F. Sheerin, who dropped dead at the conclusion of his address of the Chicago convention last summer. He stated that there are 125,000 independent telephones in service in Indiana, and that the state can still be considered an example to some others.

N. W. Brooker, Jr., contract agent of the Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone Company, followed in a speech in which he told of the successful measures used in the contest of the independent telephone companies.

Messrs. Handian and Barnes of the National Telephone Company of Wheeling and William L. Byrd, president of the Monongahela Tube Company of Pittsburgh, were among the other speakers.

Paper by Charles West.

The last business session of the convention was held in the forenoon. A paper was read by Charles West of Allentown, general manager of the Consolidated Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, on "The Future of the Independent Telephone Movement."

This topic caused general discussion, in which nearly half of the delegates present took part, and many interesting points were made. The whole discussion showed that the movement is stronger today than ever before, and that its basic principle of local financial interest with co-operation for long distance service, is the right principle for work against competition.

The committee on resolutions on the death of W. D. Barnard of Philadelphia, late first vice president of the association, reported, and the testimonial to Mr. Barnard was ordered spread on the minutes.

In the course of the forenoon discussion the situation in Washington county, where the Federal Telephone Company is competing with the Pittsburgh & Allegheny and other independent interests, came up. The whole subject was thoroughly gone over and the result was the adoption of a resolution denouncing the Federal as not a bona fide independent.

TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Local Y. M. C. A. Will Observe Its 51st Birthday With Services in Both Cities.

DEDICATION IN ALLEGHENY

The fifty-first anniversary of the inception of Young Men's Christian association work in Pittsburgh and the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the present organization will be observed tomorrow. In the morning at 9 o'clock the service will be held in the Shadyside Presbyterian church, Amberson and Fifth avenue, with John R. Mott of New York as principal speaker. Mr. Mott is in charge of the student department of the national association and has made two tours around the world in that capacity.

In the evening two services will be held simultaneously. One will be in the First Presbyterian church, Sixth avenue, where the Hon. Henry B. F. MacFarland, president of the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia, will make the principal address. At the same hour a union meeting will be held in Calvary Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, in which the North Presbyterian and Third United Presbyterian congregations of that city will unite. Mr. Mott will address this meeting.

In observance of the second week in November as a week of prayer for young men, daily meetings will be held each afternoon next week in the rooms of the Central Y. M. C. A. building, and service will be held each evening for young men.

Visit Alexander Campbell's Grave.

Local ministers of Christian churches, together with the evangelists taking part in the present revival, will leave this morning for Bethany, W. Va., to visit the old homestead of Alexander Campbell, the founder of the denomination, and his grave. The faculty of Bethany college has arranged to entertain the guests at luncheon, and they will arrive in Pittsburgh at 8 o'clock this evening. Gen. Z. T. Sweeney will address the mass meeting in the Nixon theater tomorrow afternoon, while the Rev. John G. Slayter will conduct the meeting in the old Third Presbyterian church.

The new Roman Catholic Church of the Annunciation, Allegheny, will be dedicated tomorrow with elaborate services. Dedicatory exercises will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning with the Very Rev. Mgr. Francis L. Tobin officiating in the absence of Bishop Canevin. The Very Rev. M. A. Henir, C. S. Sp., president of Pittsburgh College of the Holy Ghost, will be the celebrant at high mass, while the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Father Valentine, of St. Joseph's retreat, Baltimore. In the evening a solemn Pontifical service will be conducted, the celebrant of which will be the Rev. E. M. McKeever. The evening sermon will be delivered by the Rev. F. P. O'Shea of Sewickley.

The officers and members of branches affiliated with the advisory council, C. M. B. A., of Western Pennsylvania, will conduct the fourth annual memorial service in honor of their dead in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Center avenue, tomorrow evening.

Opening of Winter Meetings.

The seventh winter series of Sunday afternoon theater meetings conducted by the Second Presbyterian church, under direction of the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, will begin in the Alvin theater tomorrow afternoon. A feature will be the presentation of Parsifal music by Recerto's orchestra, and singing by a chorus of 80 voices.

The annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Women's Auxiliary of the mission board of the Protestant Episcopal church was held yesterday in the Church of the Ascension. In the morning an address was delivered by the Rev. John Mann of Brazil; in the afternoon Miss Sallie Stuart of Alexandria, Va., spoke, and last evening addresses were delivered by John Wood, secretary of the board of missions, and Charles V. Vickery, both of New York. The Pittsburgh Women's auxiliary contributed $1,250 to the mission board last year.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church will be held Tuesday evening and will be followed by a banquet in the church when 600 covers will be laid. Music will be provided and among the speakers will be the Hon. H. Kirke Porter, Charles A. Edsall, J. H. Stauff and the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge.

QUARTET OF RABBIS TO DELIVER ADDRESSES

Levy, Fried, Ashinski and Sivitz to Raise Their Voices in Aid of Russian Sufferers.

The four leading rabbis in Pittsburgh will deliver addresses at the meeting Sunday night in the Washington street synagogue, arranged for the purpose of filing a protest against the continuation of massacres in Russia. Never before have the Hebrews of Pittsburgh been so aroused over the slaughter of their brethren in darkest Russia. The relief committee announced last night that the four rabbis have given their assurances that they will do all in their power to stir their congregations to their duty.

The principal speaker of the evening will be the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, rabbi of the Rodeph Shalom congregation. Among the other speakers will be Rabbi Michael Fried of the Tree of Life synagogue, Rabbi A. A. Ashinski of the Washington street synagogue and Rabbi M. S. Sivitz of the Sharon Torah synagogue. Several of the leading merchants and a few professional men will also deliver addresses.

Every Hebrew society in Pittsburgh has been invited to attend, and the replies so far received have been very pleasing to the members of the general committee.

McKeesport Jews have raised about $500 for relief and an association has been formed. Samuel Firestone is chairman; Dr. Noah Sunstein, treasurer; and L. J. Haber, A. Kapian and I. Sunstein, directors. Arrangements have been made for a mass meeting tomorrow night at the Market street synagogue, when the conditions of the Hebrews in Russia will be described.

Louis Sulzbacher of Braddock has called a meeting of the Jewish residents of that vicinity to meet with the B'Nai Brith Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to take steps to aid the sufferers in Russia.

HAMILTON'S
A Grand Clearance Sale of Exchanged
PIANOS

Before plunging into the details of one of the most remarkable piano sales ever held in this city, we ask your attention to one very important fact, and that is that we do not find misleading statements necessary in selling our wares. We do not want to give you the impression that we can sell at cut prices new pianos of makes for which we do not have the exclusive agency. Our line of new pianos includes the superb Mason & Hamlin, the beautiful A. B. Chase, and those two world-standard pianos, the Vose and Fischer, as well as the Hamil-Tone, the Schumann and other favorite makes. When you find in this list below a name like Kranich & Bach, or Weber, or Knabe, or Steinway, or some other good old name, you may know that such instruments are there because their former owners believed as we do, that it takes more than a seventy-five or hundred-year-old reputation to build a piano that will completely satisfy the critical musical tastes of modern Americans, and they also believe as we do, that no other pianos made to-day are as close to perfection as are the Mason & Hamlin and A. B. Chase. It may be, too, that that marvelous masterpiece of mechanical skill and musical genius, the has brought home to them the fact that the old piano, good as it was, nevertheless was valueless because there was no one in the home able to play it. Whatever the reason, the exchange was made. And because of the tremendous hold which these instruments of ours have taken upon the musical people hereabouts, our exchange rooms have received such an influx of used pianos as we have never before seen. And still they come. There is an ordinary every-day demand for used pianos at all times. But here is an extraordinary stock, overflowing into rooms badly needed for the new goods. The only way we can relieve the congestion is by an extraordinary inducement in low prices which will double and triple the ordinary sales in this department.

We beg of you, do not measure values by the prices quoted here. Don't look over the list and throw it away because you think the prices are too low to allow of good quality. Take our word for it, you cannot buy a new piano anywhere, not even in our store, at $50.00 more money, that will give you better service than these very used pianos. Here's a chance for the teacher who needs a good studio piano; for the music student who desires to secure a practice piano; and for parents who from the excellent standpoint of economy prefer to test the musical ability of the son or daughter on a moderate investment before buying the fine Mason & Hamlin, or A. B. Chase, or Fischer, or Vose, which they expect to own some day. We'll take back any used piano you purchase now and allow you all you have paid on the purchase price of a new one selected within the year.

With the exceptions noted, you can secure any of the following pianos on monthly payments, at slightly increased cost, according to value.

You can buy by mail as easily as you can in person, because we guarantee that every piano on this list will be found exactly as described. We do not pay freights, but if, when the piano arrives, you should not find it to be as represented, you are free to send it back immediately and have your money returned without expense to you.

We furnish free a stool, scarf and instruction book with every upright or grand piano, and make deliveries free either in the two cities or on board the cars at Pittsburg.

If you want more information than is given here, write and tell us exactly what you would like to have, or the amount you would like to spend, and we will make such suggestions as may help to solve the piano problem for you. We'd rather you would come and see us, but if you can't do that, then write to us.

BUT DON'T DELAY. WRITE OR COME AT ONCE.

INDIANS SIT AT A COUNCIL FIRE

Thousand Members of Order of Red Men Assemble at Old City Hall.

DEGREES CONFERRED ON 100

Red Men from Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, to the number of nearly 1,000, sat at the first annual joint council fire of the Allegheny county tribes last night in Old City hall, where degrees were conferred upon a class of nearly 100 candidates from all parts of the county.

The Guyasuta tribe of Pittsburgh led with 26 candidates. The degrees were conferred by a picked team under the captaincy of Charles Heckman of Guyasuta tribe. Large visiting delegations of Indians were present from Washington, Jeannette, New Kensington, Kittanning and other towns. Thomas K. Donnelly of Philadelphia, great chief of records of Pennsylvania and past great incohonee of the United States, represented the great council of the state and made an address.

The ceremonies of the council fire began when Paul Mason, chairman of the executive committee, called the meeting to order and, after a brief address of welcome, introduced the officiating officers. They were:

Sachem, Charles Schafer, Wonewok; senior sagamore, Walter Maree, Pontiac; junior sagamore, Casper Peppel, Ottawa; prophet, Richard Wingard, Guyasuta; first wawkaup, Hugh Wallace, Pontiac; second sawnap, John Segelts, Petalesharoo; chief of records, J. H. Felmeth, Natches; guard of the wigwam, George O. Critchfield, Pontiac, guards of the forest, Roy Aber, Pontiac, and William Coleman, Wonewok; first warrior, A. G. Sommers, Natches.

The local tribes and their membership present at the council fire were as follows:

Pontiac 15, south side; Ottawa, 84, south side; Natches, 159, south side; Petalesharoo, 261, Carnegie; Huron, 216, Mt. Washington; Ashchenaz, 283, Sheraden; Wonenok, 224, Lower St. Clair; Cusauna, 347, Chartiers; Gray Eagle, 367, Homestead; Wea, 383, McKees Rocks; Guyasuta, 411, Pittsburgh; Wabash, 444, Carnegie.

Ottawa, which is one of the four German tribes, will probably consolidate with Pontiac, the oldest tribe in the county, as the result of the burning of old Turner hall on the South Side, three weeks ago, when Ottawa lost its hall, records and other property. The Pontiac tribe was organized in 1850 and its only surviving charter member is Philip Klein of Jeannette, who was present last night to receive the great council degree. Huron tribe is considering a change to the English ritual, and before long there will be only two German tribes in the county, Petalesharoo and Wonewok.

The executive committee in charge of the arrangements for last night's joint council was composed of Paul Mason, chairman, Guyasuta; J. H. Felmeth, Natches, secretary-treasurer; James Fennel, Pontiac; John Segritz, Petalesharoo; Charles Schafer, Wonewok; W. C. Williamson, Guyasuta; Emile Faller, Wabash.

Charles Schafer is the chief of records and a past sachem of Wonewok, and is a Pennsylvania representative in the great council of the United States. James Fennel is the chief of records and a past sachem of Pontiac and district deputy for the English tribes. The Messrs. Felmeth, Segritz and Faller are past sachems of their tribes, and Williamson is Guyasuta's senior sagamore.

THREE CHIEFS AT RED MEN'S COUNCIL FIRE

JAMES FENNEL, Pontiac, District Deputy of English Tribes.

CHARLES SCHAFER, Wonewok, Pennsylvania Representative to Great Council of United States.

TRIES TO ESCAPE FROM COURT ROOM

Bad Juvenile Assaults Deputy Sheriff and Causes Sensation Before Judge Brown.

GRAFT CASES ARE ON THE LIST

Juvenile court had a sensation yesterday when Vincent Stasen, aged 15, of Philadelphia, who had been picked up for vagrancy, assaulted a deputy sheriff in an attempt to escape from the court room. He was taken into the room with half a dozen other youthful offenders, and when arraigned before Judge Brown appeared exceedingly meek and mild. Judge Brown ordered him remanded to the detention room in the jail until his parents could send transportation to take him home. Stasen pleaded not to be locked up, and suddenly breaking away from Deputy Sheriff Benjamin Peterson, tried to get out of the court room. He ran into the entry used by attorneys, where he was captured by a tipstave and turned over to Peterson. In taking him across the "bridge of sighs" to the jail, the boy again broke away and struck Peterson a heavy blow in the mouth, cutting him severely. He was only subdued after a hard struggle.

Alleghemy graft trials will be resumed in criminal court next week. On Thursday the proprietresses of alleged disorderly houses will be called for trial and on Friday 11 women who are charged with conducting resorts are on the trial list.

Judge Brown issued an order in criminal court directing the warden of the western penitentiary to return to court Frederick Keller to be resentenced. Keller is the prisoner who confessed to robbing the factory of the National Casket Company in Allegheny and implicated three other men. When called upon in court to testify against one of the men Keller repudiated the confession and testified in a manner favorable to the prisoner on trial, which resulted in his acquital. Judge Brown was angry at Keller's action and sentenced him three years to the penitentiary, which he afterward changed to two years.

The Union Realty Company filed a bill in equity to restrain A. O. Deichon and John H. Palmer from engaging in real estate business, in violation of a regulation 10-year contract to remain out of it.

The Pittsburgh & Westmoreland Railway Company has answered the suit of Amanda L. Foster to prevent the laying of tracks on the White Oak level road past her property. It is denied she did not consent to the railway's construction, but, it is alleged, she waited until the road was practically built in front of her property so she might compel payment for right of way.

The master recommends a decree in the divorce suit of Abbie S. Finley against Walter A. Finley on grounds of desertion.

Judge Miller allows the claim of John Fink in the estate of Maria B. Schroers. He advanced her $700, believing she was to get a loan, but it was turned down. The claim of Fink for money advanced on fire insurance policies is turned down.

Reed, Smith, Shaw & Beal filed the will of John L. Feerst, who leaves $300 to the Concordia Orphans' home of Butler county, $1,000 to Catherine Pump, $1,000 each to three grandchildren and the residue of a $21,000 estate to his son, John L. Feerst, Jr.

The Pennsylvania railroad has answered the suit of Edward C. Viersteller, administrator of the estate of David O'Brien, an action to recover $500 from the relief fund. The company says this money is payable to O'Brien's wife, according to the certificate issued, and it is alleged the records show he had a son, aged six years. The claim of the administrator that the next of kin was the father and mother of decedent is disputed.

The Citizens Traction Company and A. W. Mellon have renewed their exception to the viewers' report on the widening of Hamilton avenue.

Thomas McCaffrey filed a bill in equity against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, the Pittsburgh & Western railroad and the City Contracting Company to prevent them from entering on his property in Etna in constructing railroad improvements.

The jury found as a fact that River avenue was unsafe and dangerous to travel between the city line and Cooks run in the mandamus proceedings against Esplen borough to compel the repair of the thoroughfare.

Judge Buffington appointed George Sapper receiver for Morris Henderson, a bankrupt of Altoona. An order was also made restraining Alexander Sheeline and Samuel Levinson from disposing of the stock in Henderson's store.

Henry J. Binder, a former hotel proprietor of Pittsburgh, filed a petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities are $5,996.86 and assets $271.85.

Executions issued: Locust Grove Land Company vs. Thomas C. McKinney et al., $1,964; First National bank, Latrobe, vs. B. S. Tranorman, $3,678; Anna K. Falck vs. E. Payton Wright et al., $1,845; Abraham Sigal vs. John Weinstein, $1,085.

TO CALL CUNLIFFE.

Express Robber Will Be Sentenced This Morning for Larceny of $100,000 Package.

Edward G. Cunliffe, the express robber, who pleaded guilty to taking $100,000 entrusted to the Adams Express Company for shipment, will be called for sentence this morning, unless something happens to change the program of the district attorney. The Pinkerton detectives claim they have been unable to trace about $6,500 of the money. Cunliffe maintains he does not know where it is. District Attorney Stewart has had sentence postponed on Cunliffe to give the detectives a chance to recover the rest of the money.

On each of the two indictments Cunliffe can be sentenced three years and fined $500. It is not known how the court regards the case or what the punishment is likely to be. Many maintain that Cunliffe took the money during a period of weakness, and is not a hardened criminal, while others say the act was the result of a pre-arranged plan and was carefully carried out. The express company will probably make a statement of what money was recovered when Cunliffe is sentenced.

Striepeke to Be Sentenced.

C. H. Striepeke, former street commissioner of Allegheny, who was convicted of receiving graft from a dying woman of the Tenderloin district, will be called before Judge Shafer today for sentence. No appeal was taken after a new trial was refused.

Mr. Nelson will have offices in the Bessemer building, where Central Passenger Agent John R. James, who represents the passenger department of the company, is located. PRINCE LOUIS HAS A BUSY DAY

VISITS GOVERNORS ISLAND

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg has captured New York heart and soul. This was proven by his informal reception of a delegation of New York reporters to his cabin tonight. For the second time his highness talked to them with the utmost frankness, answered some of their searching questions and foiled others.

For ten minutes the prince was the target for the usual volley of questions with which every distinguished visitor in New York is met. Did he admire the American women? Indeed he did. The gallant Britisher thought "they could not be improved upon." What did he think of Mr. Jerome, whom he met at the dinner last night? Again Prince Louis was ready with the remark that it was easy to see why such a man succeeded. Then conversation finally turned to gymnastics in the British navy. "Yes, I am heartily in favor of sports of this kind for the men," said the prince, "and I take keen pleasure in encouraging them." The chief athletic instructor of the Drake announced today that during the squadron's stay here there would be a pugilistic contest between sailor Kirby, champion welterweight of the English navy, and Sailor Collins, champion welterweight of the United States navy. Kirby is a member of the crew of the Bedford and Collins of the crew of the Kearsarge.

There were three scheduled events on Prince Louis' program today, the first being a luncheon at Governor's Island with Brigadier General Grant. This was an elaborate affair and a distinguished company was there to meet the prince, the officers of his staff, the commanding officers of his squadron and his highness, Prince Alexander, a midshipman on the Drake and a nephew of the prince.

Among the guests were Rear Admiral Coghlan, Davis and Sigsbee, and the commanding officers of the North Atlantic fleet, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morton, Col. Robert M. Thompson, president of the naval alumni, Gen. and Mrs. Chaffee and Mrs. Cowles and Commander Sharpe. The prince made the trip to the island on the army quartermaster's tug and was received at the landing with military honors.

After luncheon the prince attended a brilliant reception at the New York navy yard, where Rear Admiral Coghlan was the prince's host. Tonight the prince and 250 officers of the two squadrons were the guests of the naval academy alumni association at a magnificent banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The prince will go to West Point tomorrow on the steamer C. W. Morse, accompanied by the ranking officers of the two squadrons. He will witness the football game between West Point and Carlisle Indians, and after the game he will return to New York on a special train in time to attend the dinner of Col. Esmers Robert M. Thompson.

Starting Movement to Erect Monument.

The erection of a monument to the heroes and heroines of the early colonial days in Western Pennsylvania was one of the chief matters of interest brought out yesterday at the meeting of the state officers of the Pennsylvania Society of the Colonial Dames. The meeting, which took the form of a conference between the state officers and the members of the Allegheny county committee, rather than an active business meeting, was continued to the morning session, which opened at 9:30 o'clock in the Twentieth Century club house. The president, Mrs. Alexander J. Cassatt, presided, and the address of welcome was given by Miss Julia Morgan Harding. The greater part of the morning was taken up with explanation of the rules for admission to the society.

The Pennsylvania society is the parent organization of the Colonial Dames and has its headquarters in Philadelphia. Its members are chiefly women in Philadelphia and the nearby suburbs. The Pennsylvania society denies the rights to formal organization of other societies or auxiliaries of the Colonial Dames, but for convenience the Dames in the different counties or localities are resolved into committees of the Pennsylvania society. Certain rules have lately been formed by this society in Philadelphia regulating the terms of eligibility of applicants for membership and determining how they may be invited to join the society. These were explained to the members of the Allegheny county committee yesterday. Then the matter of erecting a monument to the colonial days in Western Pennsylvania was discussed. Various sites were mentioned. Fort Necessity, which the Daughters of the American Revolution have also had under consideration, and other historic sites in Pittsburgh.

Following the adjournment of the business session at noon an informal reception was held in the club house at which Mrs. Cassatt, Mrs. Charles C. Harrison, the first vice president, and Mrs. William T. Wallace, the chairman of the Allegheny county committee, received. The visiting ladies in whose honor the reception was given included Mrs. Cassatt, the president of the society; Mrs. Charles H. Harrison, the first vice president; Mrs. James Winsor, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Hinchman, treasurer; Mrs. Louis S. Benson, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard Peters, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. M. Longacre, historian; Miss Harper, registrar; the following directors, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Starr and Mrs. Rhodes, all of Philadelphia, together with Mrs. Dorrance, chairman of the Luzerne county committee; Mrs. Steinman, Lancaster county committee; Mrs. Rose, Cumberland; Miss Pearson, Dauphin, and Mrs. Clay, Northumberland county committee.

Mrs. Cassatt, who is in deep mourning for a daughter, left immediately after the reception. At 1:30 o'clock luncheon was served in the club dining room, five round tables being arranged for the guests, each seating 10. Covers were laid for 48. The decorations consisted of huge yellow chrysanthemums, tied with broad blue satin ribbons, the society colors being buff and blue. At 3 o'clock the visiting ladies were taken in a special car from the Twentieth Century club house to the Block house, where a reception was given in their honor by the board of directors of the Allegheny County Daughters of the American Revolution. Miss Matilda Denny received the visitors, assisted by other members of the board. The Dames were then taken from the Block house for a trolley ride through the residential section of that city, their ride terminating at the Carnegie Art gallery, where they stopped for a while to view the exhibition. Thence a number went to Hotel Schenley, remaining there until the orchestra concert in the evening. Others were entertained in private homes. Mrs. Cassatt was the guest for a few hours of Miss Mary Speer, but took no part in the entertainment arranged by the local women.

Last evening the visiting women were the guests of the Pittsburgh Dames at the orchestra concert, the two upper boxes being reserved for their use, while some occupied seats in the body of the house. A few of the eastern women left for home last evening, the rest intending to leave Pittsburgh this morning. Several entertainments had been planned for them, among the prospective hostesses being Mrs. James B. Mellon, but their plans were frustrated by the early departure of the visitors. Mrs. William T. Wallace, the Allegheny county chairman, entertained Mrs. Steinman from Lancaster. Mrs. Cassatt arrived yesterday morning from Philadelphia in her husband's private car, accompanied by her daughter. They were met at the station by Robert Pitcairn, the resident assistant to President Cassatt, and by James McCrea, first vice president of the Pennsylvania lines.

Later he was pastor of the First Lutheran church at Norristown, and is at present in charge of the church of Holy Communion, one of the leading Lutheran churches of Philadelphia. NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Financial interests identified with the control of the Philadelphia company stated today that an official statement will be issued to the stockholders within a few days, probably early next week, notifying them of an offer to purchase their stock.

In Wall street it was reported the American Light and Traction Company had made the offer to lease the properties. The control of the American Light and Traction Company is vested in the United Gas Improvement Company.

DIES AFTER OPERATION.

Police Look for Midwife Responsible for Girl's Death.

Margaret Bowers, the young woman who died yesterday at St. John's General hospital, Allegheny, is said to be the victim of an operation performed last week by a midwife. The woman was 24 years of age and was housekeeper at a place conducted by Mrs. Mary Collins at 707 Watson street, Pittsburgh. It is said the girl announced last week she was going to see a woman for the purpose of having the operation performed and despite the remonstrances of her friends carried out her intention. Later she became sick and was removed to the hospital, where it was found she was suffering with peritonitis.

Miss Bowers was a native of Canonsburg from where she came last July. The police are looking for the woman suspected of having performed the operation.

"In pursuance of a usage established in the days of the fathers and long observed to the moral and spiritual elevation of the people, I, Samuel Whitaker Pennypacker, governor of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby set apart Thursday, November 30, as a day to render thanks unto the Lord for the great benefits we have received at His hands, and to set forth His praise. BIG GAMES ON THE CARD TODAY

W. U. P. and W. and J. Meet for First Time in Years—Rayen's Annual Visit Here.

BATTLES EAST AND WEST

This is indeed an eventful day in football. Locally the interest is centered in the resumption of football relations between Washington and Jefferson and Western University of Pennsylvania at Exposition park. The Rayen High school of Youngstown will meet the Pittsburgh High school at Friendship park.

The eastern program shows some hard battles. The game at Philadelphia between U. of P. and Harvard will probably be the hardest of the east. Cornell expects to play Princeton a hard game at Princeton. Brown, which has been playing all the big teams it has met in the east hard, will tackle Yale at New Haven. The Carlisle Indians will play the Army at West Point and Bucknell will oppose the Navy at Annapolis.

The big teams in the west will have easier opponents. Ohio State, which scored on Michigan last year at Columbus, will play the western champions at Ann Arbor. The Wolverines will "play" the Buckeye team "safe," and do not anticipate being scored upon again by this eleven. Purdue will play Chicago at Chicago and Beloit will tackle Wisconsin at Madison.

The W. U. P. squad had a light practice yesterday afternoon and at its conclusion Capt. Thompson expressed himself as being confident of victory today over W. and J. With the appearance of Perry on the field yesterday in his regular position, the varsity lineup was complete and every man is ready to play the game of his life this afternoon. The men were sent to bed early last night and will spend this morning resting, proceeding to the grounds shortly after 2 o'clock. The varsity team will come to Pittsburgh shortly before noon. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. The teams will lineup as follows:

W. U. P.		W. & J.
Perry	L. E.	Hupp
Miller	L. T.	Bridges
Zieg	L. G.	Seaman
McKean	C.	Sutter
Edgar	R. G.	Sterne
Marshall	R. T.	James
East	R. E.	Ward
Griggs, Boisseau	Q. B.	McFarland
A. Griggs, Thompson	H.	Dougherty
Schmidt, Klawuhn	R. H.	Morris
Banbury, Mehl	F. B.	Wright

The Rayen High team reach the city from Youngstown this morning at 11:45 for the game with Pittsburgh High at Friendship park. The Rayen boys are a husky lot of schoolboys, the team averaging 152 pounds. Pittsburgh will be outweighed 10 pounds to the man. All the hard yells and songs rehearsed for the Shadyside game next Saturday will be used today, if good rooting counts for aught the locals will win.

The strongest lineup of the season, despite the loss of good men through conditions and low grades, will be on the field. The High school boys will lineup as follows: Left end, Clark or Page; left tackle, Dunn; left guard, Cohen; center, Patterson; right guard, Hazlett or Challinor; right tackle, Williams; right end, Woodside or Van Gorder; quarterback, Haggerty or Watterson; right half, Worrell; left half, McAllister; full, Orr. The game will be called promptly at 3:15.

ERWIN IS ELIGIBLE FOR TEAM AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 10.—Yale's football eleven will meet Brown tomorrow afternoon for the final game of Yale's practice schedule. Princeton and Harvard being played on the two succeeding Saturdays. The Yale eleven held only signal drill today as the coaches were not willing to run any risk of having a further addition made to the list of cripples. It is probable that a large number of substitutes will be used in the game tomorrow if the regulations of the contest make it possible for Yale to adopt such a policy of economy for the regular players. Jones, the sensational quarterback, is said to be still so lame that he cannot enter the game. The faculty today declared Erwin, the big substitute guard, eligible for the team. He has been under the ban for several weeks owing to low scholarship. Mackay, another valuable substitute, is said by the coaches to be eligible.

Princeton Crippled.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—The team which is to represent Princeton against Cornell here tomorrow will doubtless surprise many followers of the Orange and Black. The team was in miserable shape after the Dartmouth game following so closely on the Columbia game, and when the Tigers were given a scrimmage on Monday they were badly bruised up. However, since then, including today's work, the coaches have kept the team working secretly except for a signal drill yesterday. The coaches seem satisfied and confident of the Tigers' condition, but they are very reticent about the secret work. Today's work was again secret, but consisted of only a short signal drill and play formation. Judging from yesterday's open signal drill the Tigers are faster and quicker than ever. The change of places recently made by Dillon and Rafferty was apparently permanent, and is working well.

The Cornell squad arrived at 5:30 this evening and were driven at once to the Nassau hotel, where they will make their quarters while in Princeton.

St. Joe Team Is the Winner.

At Sharpsburg last night the St. Joseph pool team defeated the champion St. Aloysius team by a score of 100 to 68. Playing was sharp all the way. Score:

St. Joseph—		Sharpsburg—

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Frank Walling, the South Side lad, would like to meet any 122-pound lad in the country. Eddie Zang has agreed to meet Tom O'Hara in a six-round bout at Johnstown on November 22.

Young Bijou has started training after a long rest, and he is open to meet all comers at his weight, Jack Eryce preferred.

The next bout before the Charleroi club will likely be between Frank Morgan and Curley Supples. Good inducements have been offered, and Morgan is ready to accept.

Kid Dillon of Allegheny, who claims the 105-pound championship, wants to meet Young Eringer. If Dillon puts up a little dough to will promptly hear from the other side.

Ned Chernoff will again try to induce some of the men of his weight to enter the ring with him. His manager is willing to post a forfeit to meet any good man; Billy Ryan preferred.

Frank Morgan yesterday turned down an offer from Ridgeway, Pa., to meet Cy Flinn in a 25-round contest for a purse of $100. Morgan says that is not enough money in it for him, considering training expenses and car fare.

Paddy Brown of the South Side challenges Kid Carter, Jack Bruce, Jim Hanlon, the Mantles, Bob Reardon of Donora, or any other 120-pound man, including Ned Chernoff. The backer of Brown says he will show up today to post a forfeit.

There is a likelihood of a meeting between Mull Bowser and Frank Morgan for $500 a side. The distance is to be 20 rounds in private. The battle, it is said, was scheduled for November 2, but the backer of Bowser will not allow his man to fight inside of three weeks. The matter will be settled in a day or two.

SURPRISES ON SOME LOCAL BOWLING ALLEYS

Federals of Allegheny Beaten by the Cecelias in Two Out of Three Games.

The Federal team of the Allegheny section went down to defeat last night by losing two games to the Cecelias. The bowling was only of the ordinary character, not an 800 score being registered. The Federals, who lead the Allegheny section, could roll only 688 in the first game, the rock bottom point of the team. The Cecelias bowled steadily, although not brilliantly. The best bowler was Ed Neidhardt, who in the second and third games came near the 200 mark. His high score was 196. Not one of the Federal bowlers rolled up to his standard, and the team deserved to be beaten. A glance at the scores will show such low figures at either the beginning or end of the match as to bring a blush even to the hardened features of Peter Hormick. The least said about the match the better. Scores:

HARVARD IS A 2 TO 1 FAVORITE OVER PENN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Confident of their ability to win and wipe out the defeat of last year, the Harvard football squad arrived here today for their annual game with the University of Pennsylvania tomorrow on Franklin field. Trainer McMasters reports the varsity team as in prime condition for the contest. The players, accompanied by coaches and athletic officials of Harvard, reached the city shortly before noon, and after luncheon the entire squad went to Franklin field, where signal practice was had until late in the afternoon. The Pennsylvania team is resting at Whalow Junction, N. J., about 25 miles from this city, and will return to the city shortly before noon tomorrow.

Harvard is picked to win the game, the betting being 2 to 1 on the crimson team. Notwithstanding the loss of several good men, Pennsylvania expects to give Harvard a hard game.

With the coming of the Harvard team the rumor that tomorrow's game will be the last the two universities will play together was again revived, but there does not seem to be any foundation for the report.

Athletic officials of the two institutions met officially today and this evening, and there was nothing in evidence to indicate that Harvard and Pennsylvania are about to break athletic relations. Nothing was made public regarding the protest made by Harvard against Lamson, the Pennsylvania tackle, and the incident is believed to be closed. The probable line-up of the teams tomorrow is as follows:

West End Pool Team in Line.

The West End pool team is ready for the coming season stronger than ever. It has two new men who are there with the goods, and expects to start and finish among the leaders. It would like to play a few games with some of the teams which are ready, just for the practice and to renew old friendships. Yoverecks, Garfields, Crescents, Demonds or the Owls preferred. The West Ends have a new room, the Casino Amusement Company, and a 4½ by 9 table with extra fast cushions. The West Ends think the officers of the league are inclined to be a little slow in getting together. For games address Casino Amusement Company, West End, or call 174 Walnut. Would like to have a game for Monday or Friday evening.

Cornell Is Hopeful.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Two thousand students and a big red rooster gave the Cornell football squad a rousing sendoff when it started for Princeton this morning. Even the most skeptical over the chances of winning from the Tigers tomorrow laid aside their gloomy airs and marched to the train to cheer and sing for the team. One incident which was accepted as a good omen and even gave the players encouragement, was the lusty crowing of the huge chanticleer, which apparently caught the spirit of the occasion, with the last round of the rousing "Cornell, I yell, yell, yell, Cornell."

Kid Sullivan the Winner.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—Before the Eureka Athletic club tonight Kid Sullivan of Washington proved conclusively his declaration that he would whip Tommy Lowe, also of Washington, before the end of the 15 rounds or forfeit all claim to the purse, was no bluff. The finish came in the eighth, when Referee O'Hara gave the decision to Sullivan because Lowe, for the third time within two rounds, went to his knees without being hit in order to save himself from a knockout.

ALLEGHENY WANTS BAN ON BRIDGES

Chairman Wells Asks That W. U. P. Compel W. and J. Keep Him Out of Game Today.

ACTION IS DEFERRED

The football authorities of Western University of Pennsylvania were asked last night over the long-distance telephone by H. E. Wells, chairman of the athletic committee of Allegheny college, Meadville, to protest to W. and J. against allowing Bridges to play in today's game.

W. U. P. did not give Allegheny college a definite answer, but promised to give the matter consideration and Manager Wickes of Washington and Jefferson, who was called up later was urged to come to Pittsburgh prepared to state his side of the case. He was asked to bring with him any correspondence that will vindicate Bridges.

Chairman Wells while talking over the telephone from Meadville said that Bridges left Allegheny college under circumstances which seemed questionable to the athletic authorities there and in his opinion the young man should not be permitted to take part in college athletics in Western Pennsylvania until after the adjustment of the matter between W. and J. and Allegheny college. He added that no serious ill feeling existed in Meadville, that Dr. Crawford, President of Allegheny college, wrote to President Moffatt of W. and J. a week ago last Saturday from Cleveland, inviting him to appoint representatives for a consultation in the Bridges case. Chairman Wells said that no answer was received from Washington and on Friday he telephoned to W. and J. repeating the request for a consultation. He was told that the matter would have to be deferred for two weeks at least.

It was about decided last night by the athletic authorities of W. U. P. that if the eligibility clause of the contract with W. and J. does not furnish a basis for a protest, that the local institution will not interfere in the Bridges case at this late day. Final action will be deferred until Manager Wickes arrives this morning.

Golden Wedding Is Celebrated.

There was the rose scented atmosphere of June at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Seaman in Leetsdale last evening, when a reception was held in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Roses, chrysanthemums and a host of other flowers sent by friends filled the lower rooms of the house. More than 100 guests from Pittsburgh, Allegheny and other points were present. William H. Seaman and Miss Henrietta Cunningham were married in the South Side, Pittsburgh, in 1855, removing one year later to Neville township, where they remained for nine years. They have lived in Leetsdale for 40 years. For the first 18 years following Mr. Seaman's marriage he conducted a fruit farm, abandoning that to enter the business of a contractor and builder. Both he and his wife are members of the Shields Presbyterian church, in which Mr. Seaman is an elder. He has been superintendent of the Sunday school of that church for 22 years. Mr. Seaman, who is now 70 years old, was born in Darlington, O. Mrs. Seaman is 66 and was born in Pittsburgh. There are five children living: S. A. and Thomas J. Seaman and Mrs. Lawrence Davis of Leetsdale; G. M. Seaman of Allegheny, Mrs. John A. Moore of Ben Avon. There are 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mr. Seaman has these brothers and sisters: J. S. and D. E. Seaman, business men of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Charles Goehring of Zelienople, Mrs. Charles Geise of Morningside. Mrs. Seaman has one brother, Thomas Cunningham of Pittsburgh. Supper was served at the home of Mrs. Davis.

Tea for Indiana Guest.

Pretty decorations were a feature of the reception given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Frank Stonecipher of Hays street. The two friends received together and were assisted by Mrs. Charles L. Neible, Miss Grace Taylor, Miss Ida Allerton, Mrs. J. J. Matthews, Mrs. O. M. T. Taylor, Mrs. Sarah Boggs, Mrs. S. A. Miller, Mrs. Graham C. Wells, Miss Eleanor Laird, Miss Gertrude Laird, Miss Flora Langenheim, Miss Gertrude Langenheim, Mrs. Alfred Hine, Miss Elizabeth Wilkinson and Mrs. William B. Lantz. The mantel in the hall was banked with long-stemmed yellow chrysanthemums, which drooped in a graceful manner over the shelf. Shades of yellow-fringed paper capped the lights, and in the drawing-room the mantel was banked in graduated fashion with chrysanthemums of a dark red hue, one end of the mantel having a very high banking, which sloped down to the height of a single blossom at the opposite corner. A basket of pink roses tied with tulle ribbon occupied the center of the dining-room table.

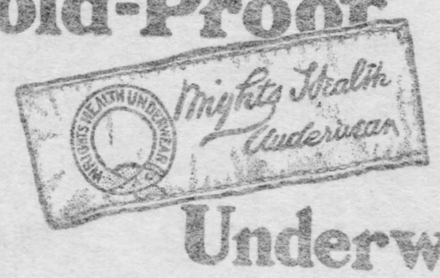
Cold-Proof



Underwear

Wright's Health Underwear differs from common underwear in that it protects the wearer from catching colds. It is made, as no other underwear is, on the wonderful Wright's loop-fleece principle. Upon the foundation fabric is woven a myriad of tiny loops of wool forming a fleecy lining to the garment. This open woven fleece gives the skin the requisite ventilation, allows the pores to breathe, carries off perspiration and allows it to evaporate outside, leaving the skin dry and healthy.

Ordinary catch-cold underwear is tightly woven, non-absorbent, holds the perspiration on the skin—chills the body—gives colds. With its many advantages Wright's Health Underwear costs no more than common underwear. Ask your dealer for it and write for free book "The Loop of Health and the Fleece of Comfort."

MONEY STILL STRINGENT, BUT STOCK MARKET RALLIED

The Recovery Was General, but Steel Stocks Scored the Largest Gains—Crucible and Fire Proofing the Active Local Features.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

After some hesitation in the early dealings, the New York stock market turned strong yesterday, and in the face of continued stringency in the money market there was a general recovery in values. The basis for this recovery, however, was more of a speculative character than anything else. Trading became dull, indicating that liquidation had run its course for the time being at least, and when shorts started to cover they found few stocks pressing for sale. Besides this, everyone recognizes that the rise in call loan rates is not due to any lack of confidence in the situation, but to an increase in the demand from commercial borrowers. The volume of trade is running at the maximum of the year, and the gold which we usually import at this season is not coming, first, because of special conditions prevailing in the foreign market; and, second, because the movement of cotton is backward. There is nothing in the rise in call loan rates, therefore, to alarm anybody.

Call money was a little scarcer yesterday than on any previous day this week, and the rates averaged higher, although 15 per cent was not exceeded at any time during the day. The opening quotation was 8½ per cent, and the bulk of the business was above 10 per cent. Early in the afternoon the rate touched 15 per cent, and just before the close of the market got as low at 7½ per cent, but the final loan was at 15 and the closing quotations were at 14 bid, 15 per cent asked.

The bank statement will be awaited today with much interest. The members of the clearing house associations have been calling loans freely this week. If the movement has gone far enough, the small margin of surplus reserve will be preserved; otherwise, the surplus is likely to be wiped out. It is estimated that the banks this week lost more than $9,000,000 cash, of which amount $5,127,000 was through sub-treasury operations. During the past three days there has been extensive liquidation in the stock market, and this should be reflected in the bank statement today.

London quotations for American securities were fractionally higher, and it is estimated that foreigners bought 20,000 share on balance. After the opening rally there was a moderate reaction which carried the level of prices back to the lowest of the week. Then dullness ensued, but during the afternoon the recovery was rapid and continuous, and the final sales showed net gains ranging from small fractions to 5 per cent. The miner iron and steel stocks scored the largest gains. Tennessee Coal and Iron was conspicuous, rising from 92¼ to 97⅛, and closing 4⅜ per cent higher than on Thursday. There was also a rise of about 5 per cent in Sloss-Sheffield Iron, and Republic Iron and Steel ruled strong. This movement revived the stories current a few months ago of a consolidation of the southern iron interests. Republic was benefited by the annual report, showing net profits of more than $2,500,000, an increase of $1,202,000 over the previous year. United States Steel issues fluctuated within narrow limits, but closed firm at the best prices of the day. The other industrials averaged nearly 1 per cent higher.

There was a good recovery in the public utility stocks, Consolidated Gas leading with a net gain of 1⅛ per cent. Reading was quieter than of late and closed only ⅜ higher.

The publication of the government report on grain was followed by a decline in both wheat and corn. The government figures estimated the yield of corn at 28.8 bushels an acre, and the total crop at 2,707,563,500 bushels. Bradstreet's reported total clearances for the week of 3,532,429 bushels wheat and flour, and 751,080 bushels corn. The primary receipts of wheat were about 200,000 bushels larger than for the same day last year.

The active features of the local stock market were Crucible Steel and National Fire Proofing, these two stocks contributing more than two-thirds of the total day's business. Crucible Steel common sold at 15, more than 2,000 shares changing hands at that price, and the market closed at 14⅞ bid. The selling was confined mainly to one house, while the buying was scattered. NOTES AND COMMENT.

In the active discussion of the money situation which went on all day was much heard in Wall street of a claim or a complaint that the apparent stringency in the money market was the result of manipulation and was designed against important speculative pools in special stocks. The comparative tranquility of other department of the money markets was pointed to as corroborative of this view. It was a view that did not receive much countenance in banking circles or outside of speculative circles about the stock exchange. A decline of $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 within a week in the cash holdings of the banks, with the surplus reserve at the beginning of that period down to $2,854,275, while speculative borrowing continued into this week in attempted extension of operations for the advance at some points, seems sufficient explanation for the necessity on the part of the banks to curtail loans. It is by no means unusual for interest rates for commercial purposes to be held down to a 6 per cent rate in the midst of violent flurries in the call money market on the stock exchange. The precedent of 138 per cent quoted on call money at the stock exchange in December, 1899, while 6 per cent ruled for time loans and for mercantile paper, is the most striking example. It is this comparative tranquility of commercial interest rates that is offered to explain the reluctance of the secretary of the treasury to take any measures for the relief of the money market so far as the merely speculative needs are concerned.

The week's operations of the New York banks with the sub-treasury alone show a loss of $8,127,000, the variation in the estimates of the total cash loss having to do with the amount of the movement by express to the interior, which all the banks agree, however, has been heavy. The high rate for money is an effective barrier against foreign pressure for funds upon New York and foreign exchange made a further wide decline yesterday. This was in spite of a hardening of discounts in Paris and Berlin. Offerings of bankers' bills in the exchange market against loans placed in the money market was the principal factor in the weakness of exchange. The attractive level of money rates was said to have induced large offerings from outside centers and on account of corporations and capitalists at different points in the country. The calling of loans on the part of the New York banks kept up the rate most of the time above 11 per cent. Foreign markets were discouraged again by the Russian troubles as shown by the fall in Russian bonds. There was no further transfer to the interior through the sub-treasury yesterday and this had some good effect on sentiment. It was pointed out in this connection that the government institution thus far in November has already transferred $4,450,000 to the interior, compared with a total for the whole of last November of $4,730,000.

The preferred stock amounting to 99,999 shares, which were purchased at $10 a share, at the same time, are being paid for at the rate of 6 cents a ton on all coal mined, settlements being made on January 20 and July 20 of each year.

The growing belief that the Ryan interests will receive little in the way of favors from the new board of estimate, even though the present mayor retains his office, is responsible for the quiet liquidation of Metropolitan since the election.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit convertible 4s were active in the New York bond market yesterday, $3,8,000 changing hands at 92½ to 94¼. The sales of Lackawanna issues reached $775,000. U. S. Steel 5s were also active, sales footing up $275,000. U. S. government 2s advanced ⅛ per cent on call.

The conductors of the speculative operations for an advance seemed to have come to a concerted determination to ignore the stringency in the money market as an influence on sentiment and to pay the prevailing rate for day to day loans and hold their stocks.

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR APPLES OF ALL KINDS

Medium and Low Grade Are Finding a Good Sale—Trade Good in All Departments.

The trade in the local markets was very good yesterday. The changes in prices were comparatively few and nothing new of interest developed.

An active and continued demand has developed for apples, both the medium and low grades finding a good sale. The offerings, however, are light. Pears are in light supply but are selling well for best stock. Grapes are also finding a good sale, with prices favoring the buyer. Cranberries are remaining firm, but will probably advance in a short time.

The supply of rabbits is fair, but sales are slow, prices running at 40 and 50 cents a pair.

There is no change in the egg situation and the receipts are fair, with a good demand.

A large quantity of potatoes was brought in yesterday by boats, but there was no change in the price. The demand for potatoes is good, and sweets are growing more in favor.

HAY AND GRAIN.

There are no changes to note in the prices of hay or grain. The market was fairly active during the day and ruled firm on all quotations. Receipts were fair and all arrivals were quickly picked up.

MAY DELIVERY STILL DROPS IN HOME MARKET

News of Liberal Shipments from Argentina Weakens Price of Grain.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Confirmation of reported liberal shipments from Argentina contributed heavily to weakness today in the wheat market here. At the close the price of the May delivery was off 1¼@1¼c. Other staples also are down, corn 1¼@1¼c, oats ⅜@½c and provisions 2@c to 7½c.

The weakness in wheat prevailed throughout the entire session. Selling was active and general the greater part of the day. At times the bull leaders supported the market openly by liberal purchases, but efforts of this sort caused only small temporary rallies. Commission houses, while fair buyers at intervals, were compelled to execute numerous selling orders for stop-loss account. This added materially to the weakness, and gave additional encouragement to bears. Interest centered in the enormous shipments of wheat from Argentina. Total exports from the South American republic for the past week were 2,320,000 bushels, compared with only 752,000 bushels the corresponding week a year ago. A cablegram from Argentina reported the weather there as favorable for the new crop. Receipts at Minneapolis, Duluth and Winnipeg showed marked increase and helped to stimulate the selling movement here. The market closed weak at practically the lowest point of the day. May opened 1½c to 1¾c lower at 82¼c to 83¾c, sold at 80½c, soon after the opening, and then declined to 80½c. Final quotations were at 81½@81¾c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 212,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,231,000 bushels, compared with 1,050,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,031 cars, against 856 cars last week and 801 cars a year ago.

The Government report showing a total yield of 2,709,650,000 bushels of corn in the United States was chiefly responsible for a sharp break in corn prices. The bull leaders gave the market liberal support, but prices receded in the face of the generally bearish sentiment resulting from the official statistics relating to the new corn crop. Commission houses were heavy sellers and small lungs also sold freely. Outside of the government report there was little in news gossip to encourage bears. The market closed weak, with prices at about the lowest point of the day. May opened 1¢ to 1¼c lower at 46¾c to 46¾c, sold between 45⅝@46¼c and closed at 45¾@45⅞c. Local receipts were 210 cars, with four of contract grade.

Notwithstanding the extreme weakness of wheat and corn, the oats market held comparatively steady. Export demand for oats was an influential factor in sustaining the market. A slight reaction occurred late in the session and the market closed easy. May opened a shade lower at 32⅝c, sold between 32¼c and 32⅝c and closed at 32⅜c. Local receipts were 361 cars.

Provisions were a trifle easier on moderate selling by local packers. The slump in corn had some effect. At the close May pork was off 7½c at $12 67½. Lard was down 2½c at $6 97½. Ribs were 2½@5c lower at $6 75@6 90.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 151 cars; corn, 385 cars; oats, 240 cars; hogs, 13,000 head.

The Drygoods Market.

BUSINESS SITUATION IS REMAINING STRONG

Dun's Report for the Week Shows Good Trade in Every Quarter—Strikes Are Few and Small.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow (Saturday) will say:

Each week brings a stronger business situation, seasonable weather having removed the last drawback and pressure for shipment of goods is so great in many lines that the partial holiday put deliveries still further behind and caused much inconvenience. Reports of wholesome conditions are now practically unanimous, and improvement in collections is noted in many dispatches. Retail trade in wearing apparel and food stuffs is the feature, while interest is beginning to be shown in holiday goods, of which very large stocks were accumulated in expectation of a record breaking season.

Manufacturing lines constantly establish new high water marks of production, the present output of pig iron being at the rate of more than two millions tons monthly, and this is one of the best known barometers. Footwear forwardings from Boston are within a few thousand cases of the record established in 1903, textile mill cannot make deliveries with desired promptness and building operations are phenomenal. A few small strikes are in progress but not sufficient to prevent the greatest industrial activity in the nation's history.

Railway earnings thus far reported for October show a gain of 2.5 per cent over last year. Prosperity is also evidenced by a further rise in prices of commodities, Dun's index number on November 1 being $108,853, the highest point of recent years. The per capita amount of money in circulation is also at a new record of $31.82. Foreign commerce is fully maintained, exports from this port being valued at $2,147,998 more than in the same week last year and imports gaining $1,028,954.

Beyond the fact that former conditions are accentuated, there is nothing new in the iron and steel industry. Demand for all forms of heavy steel is beyond the capacity of mills, the railroads showing an appetite for equipment, and building operations absorbing structural shapes as rapidly as they can be turned out.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Bradstreets' tomorrow (Saturday) will say:

Corn exports for the week are 751,050 bushels, against 1,009,210 last week, 148,651 a year ago, 1,688,282 in 1903, and 281,901 in 1902. From July 1, to date, the exports of corn are 19,737,824 bushels, against 19,789,906 in 1904, 20,599,878 in 1903, and 2,144,599 in 1902.

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Tight money is still causing uncertainty in the market. The opening this morning was dull and stocks were freely sold all through the list. In Boston Consolidated, Utah, Butte and Copper Range the demand was excellent and after the first break the recovery was rapid. At present the market is purely a trading affair and should be treated accordingly and stocks should be bought only on the weak days.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

A 40-foot vein of carbonate ore that will average $20 per ton was opened in the Adelaide mine at Leadville, Colo., a few days ago. The Adelaide is one of the oldest properties in the camp and is situated in a park of that name east of Iron Hill.

At the Mary Nevin property on Rosebud Hill an ore shoot of three feet in width has been opened. The appearance of the ore suggests that the mineral will give returns of from $30 to $70 to the ton.

Preliminary steps are now being taken to list the shares of the Superior Copper Company on the Boston stock exchange.

The October output of mineral from the Adventure and the Michigan mines amounted to 264,099 and 342,500 pounds, respectively.

The Gold Sovereign Company has declared dividend No. 2 of 1½ per cent a share, amounting to 89,000, payable November 25 to stockholders of record November 20. The notice to the stockholders contains the information that splendid ore has been opened in the tenth level near the shaft.

ROAD IMPROVES YARD FACILITIES

Pennsylvania's Property at Pitcairn Is Bettered—Wabash Using New Route.

PLANTING TREES FOR TIES

The Pennsylvania will have greatly improved facilities for handling its westbound tonnage in this district after today. The new westbound hump in the classification yard that has been under construction at Pitcairn for several months will be thrown into operation. It will afford a much better basis of operations for the immense tonnage that is moving on the Pennsylvania and other local roads.

The new classification yard has been completed so far as to accommodate 1,400 cars, while the westbound receiving yard will hold 1,000 cars. There still remains considerable work to be done in connection with the westbound yards, as an extension is now under white the westbound receiving yard will not be ready for about six weeks. Similar improvements are under contemplation for the eastbound yards, but these have not been begun and nothing will be done until the westbound yards are completed. There is to be no immediate change in the eastbound classification, but the westbound operations will now be conducted by gravity instead of by shifting engines.

For the present switchmen will be employed to operate the switches for the tracks below the hump. This is done because of the electric apparatus not being installed. In a couple of weeks the switches will be operated electrically by one man in the tower on the summit of the hump. This building is situated at one side of the summit and on the other side is the scale house where each car is weighed as it passes over the hump and is sent by gravity to the classification tracks below.

The Pitcairn shops are kept humming with work, but they are not such busy places as last year, when the water used for the engines was filled with actual impurities. The constant rains this summer and fall have kept the water in excellent shape for all of the Pittsburgh roads, with the result that the motive power is in the best condition for the heavy operations. Should last season's bad condition of water be experienced this season Pittsburgh would now have a much worse congestion of freight traffic than in 1902. As it is, almost all of the engines are in daily operation, and few engine failures have been caused by tubes that leak because of corrosion from the acid. It was said yesterday that several of the Pittsburgh lines could use more engines, but this shortage of motive power is directly due to lack of number of engines on the divisions and not by the locomotives being shopped. For instance, on the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania there are about 560 engines in commission for the 118 miles of road and not more than a dozen of these are in the shops.

Mexico as a Tourist Mecca.

A letter received in Pittsburgh yesterday gives an interesting view of Mexico from Samuel G. Hatch, general passenger agent of the Illinois Central railroad. Mr. Hatch, who is well known to Pittsburgh passenger men, has just returned from an extensive tour of Mexico and is loud in his praises of the neighboring republic.

"With modern hotels, Mexico would soon become a great field for American tourist travel," says Mr. Hatch. "The average American visitor to Mexico does not see the best parts of the country, which lies south of the City of Mexico. The railroads are well constructed and well managed. Nearly all of the trains and station employes and many of the officers of the roads are Americans.

"The age of Mexico was the fascination for me. It is a more ancient proposition than Europe, and probably than Egypt. Actual records are scarce, but enough has been discovered to place its population and civilization almost back of any known district of the world. The Mexicans are a delightful people."

Texas Roads "Up Against It."

The Texas railroad commission has decided that the International & Great Northern train out of Longview must leave within a half hour after the time scheduled for its departure, regardless of whether or not it has received from its connecting train of another road the United States mail, which the international has contracted with the government to haul within a limited time. Thus when the connecting train does not reach Longview within the 30-minute limit the railway is subject to a fine if its train does not leave at the required time, and to a United States penalty if it does. The commission is said to be considering the matter of extending the order to all trains of the state, according to a letter received here yesterday from a Texas railroad man. It is believed that a test will be made to determine whether the order of the commission interferes with interstate commerce and the United States mails.

Wabash on Salt Lake Route.

Announcement was made by Assistant General Passenger Agent Fred H. Trautman of the Wabash yesterday that his company is now operating tourist cars to Los Angeles, Cal., by way of the St. Louis gateway, the Denver & Rio Grande railroad and the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake road. The latter is the new line recently built by Senator Clark. A number of western roads are using the new Salt Lake route from Chicago and St. Louis gateways, as the road gives a much shorter route than other northern lines and also takes the patrons through a new portion of the country. The Salt Lake passenger department has just issued an excellent map of the line, with all stations noted and the adjacent country outlined in counties.

Planting 200,000 Trees for Ties.

The problem of securing enough crossties is one of the most difficult with which the railroads have to deal, and the Pennsylvania has already taken steps looking to the future supply. Hundreds of thousands of trees have been planted along the lines at various places. About 200 men began another planting yesterday on property of the company near Huntingdon. At this place, and at other points along the main line of the Central Pennsylvania, it is designed to plant about 200,000 small trees this year, and to increase this number to 1,000,000 in the next few years. Tests of almost innumerable other kinds of crossties have been made, but there has been no tie found that serves like the wooden one.

Say Mileage Is Sold by Scalpers.

At the monthly meeting of the Central Passenger association at Chicago Wednesday, action was taken rescinding the act of the September meeting in granting the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and Lake Shore & Michigan Southern roads the right to use the New York Central mileage between Pittsburgh and Buffalo. This was done, it was said, because the mileage was being purchased and sold by scalpers. The subjects of issuing clergy permits to Dowieites and of all-year-round stop-overs were held over until the December meeting.

A farewell reception was tendered to Mr. Peebles at the Valley branch of the Young Men's Christian association last night.

Negress May Keep Platt's Money.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The appellate division of the New York state supreme court today handed down a decision dismissing a suit brought by John R. Platt against Hannah Elias, a negress, to recover $658.000 which Platt asserted he had given to her under coercion. The court stated in the decision that it was not made on the merits of the case.

BUILDING BOOM ON NEW LOT PLAN

Brighton Heights Company Will Build 25 Houses on Walker and Harbison Homesteads.

WOOD STREET LEASE OF $70,000

The Brighton Heights Company, which lately acquired the Harbison tract of 15 acres in Allegheny for $150,000, and has been actively engaged for three months in developing and selling the Brighton Heights allotment, is making arrangements to build 25 houses on the two properties. Nine of these houses will be started this month, plans having been prepared by Architects C. E. Willoughby and J. Edward Kehrs. The sites are all 50-foot lots facing in Stanford road, the new main thoroughfare through the old Harbison homestead, and in both sides of Davis avenue, some of the lots being in the Brighton Heights allotment. One house will be built in Princeton road which will cost $8,000. The others will be 10-room, reception hall brick houses, costing from $5,000 to $6,500 each, for which the contracts will be awarded at once. The company is already building four residences as follows: One stone house in Davis avenue, to cost $10,000; one cottage in Vernon avenue, to cost $7,000, and two houses in Coe and Walker avenues, to cost $4,500 each. In the original Brighton Heights allotment 19 purchasers have announced their intention of building good houses this fall on the streets that are best improved. The work of providing new streets through the Harbison addition will be pushed fast and several of the best sites have already been picked out by home buyers.

Important Lease in Wood Street.

Interest in downtown leases is increasing every day, as the time for business firms to settle on new locations for next year approaches. Yesterday the Commonwealth Real Estate Company leased the three-story brick building at 515 Wood street, owned by the Fitzgibbon estate, to a prominent local mercantile firm for a long term of years. The total rental for the period is $70,000, and it is understood the lease is on a sliding scale. The building is now occupied by Ulrich & Spencer, dealers in gent's furnishings, who have secured a long lease on the first floor of the building which the Pittsburgh Coal Company proposes to erect at 522 Fifth avenue, as mentioned in The Gazette six weeks ago. The Fitzgibbon building is 20x80 feet and will be remodeled at considerable expense by the new tenants before they take possession next April. The present occupants had a five years' lease on the building, but a deal was made by which they were released from this and the time of the lease extended several years.

Two other downtown leases of much more than ordinary interest are booked for announcement within a few days. Brokers are using their utmost efforts to induce business firms to tie up early in the season this year, and are succeeding fairly well, as several firms, including R. S. Davis & Co., who will move to Wood street, have already secured new locations. It is the opinion of renting agents that the firms which lag behind this year are pretty certain to get left, owing to the fact that general business conditions are good and new firms are figuring on choice locations.

The Tri-State Gas Company has recently piped the entire borough of West Carnegie and put down nearly three miles of mains. Following this improvement the trustees of Scott township have put gas lights over the town. The West Carnegie Land Company has spent $4,000 in grading a road from the intersection of the Glendale road to the Superior bridge, and with the stone that were taken from this job will lay the foundations for 25 five-room frame houses. These will be built on lots 25x100 feet each in Glen and Orchard avenues, and will cost $1,800 each. The proposed street car line from McDonald to Heidelberg, for which surveys were recently made, and which will touch Oakdale and Fort Pitt, is causing considerable inquiry for property in this section, as it will open up a large amount of good acreage and make a much more direct route to the city.

The Taking Cold Habit

The old cold goes; a new one quickly comes. It's the story of a weak throat, a tendency to consumption. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral breaks up the taking-cold habit. It strengthens, heals. Ask your doctor to tell you all about it. Then follow his advice.

"I had a terrible cold, and nothing relieved me. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and it promptly broke up my cold, stopped my cough, and eased every part of my body. It did wonderful work for me."—J. F. Lutz, Toledo, Ohio.

RAILROAD EMPLOYES OPPOSE NEW RATE LAW

National Administration Is Advised That Labor Organizations Will Support Corporations.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—An intimation has reached the administration that when the tug of war comes between the President and the railroads on the question of rate legislation, the force of the four large railroad men's organizations will be thrown on the side of the railroads. They will use all the influence they possess to deter congress from passing such a rate bill as the President proposes.

A short time ago President Clarke of the Order of Railway Conductors, Chief Morissey of the Trainmen, Chief Hanrahan of the Firemen and Chief Stone of the Engineers were all in Washington attending a hearing before the interstate commerce commission. In conversation with some government officials they stated that their organizations would take the side of the railroads on the rate question.

It is not stated that any particular plan of campaign has been determined upon, but each of the four organizations has a membership of thousands all over the country, and its influence on matters of legislation is correspondingly large. The railroad men believe their best interests lie with the roads that employ them, and for that reason will line up on that side.

THIEF'S EARNINGS ARE SMALL.

Stole a Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth of Gems and Sold Them for Seven Thousand.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Confession to the robbery of $100,000 worth of gems from fashionable New York homes in the last two years was admitted today by Harold Prescott, a painter. His profit on pawning the jewelry, Prescott said, was but little over $7,000.

Prescott obtained entrance to the houses he robbed by securing employment in them as a painter. He was sentenced to five years in Sing Sing.

"For the growing slums in great cities, for the millions of lives there with out light, hope or opportunity, for colossal fortunes and rear tenements, for the multiplying millionaire and the multiplying pauper, for the cruel and insatiable avarice of capital and darkness of drudging labor—What cure?

The greatest social revolutions have resulted from the darkest and most miserable conditions. Charles Edward Russell in Man's Struggle for Equality (beginning in November Everybody's) dramatically pictures the wretched and awful condition of the poor in other countries, and, like an astute philosopher, he shows the value of the reformation into which these conditions have led.

HABIT-FORMING MEDICINES AND DRUGS.

Whatever may be the fact as to many of the so-called patent medicines containing injurious ingredients as broadly published in some journals of more or less influence, this publicity has certainly been of great benefit in arousing needed attention to this subject. It has, in a considerable measure, resulted in the most intelligent people avoiding such foods and medicines as may be fairly suspected of containing the injurious ingredients complained of. Recognizing this fact some time ago, Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., "took time by the forelock," as it were, and published broadcast all the ingredients of which his popular medicines are composed. Thus he has completely forestalled all harping critics and all opposition that might otherwise be urged against his medicines, because they are now OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. Furthermore, from the formula printed on every bottle wrapper, it will be seen that these medicines contain no alcohol or other habit-forming drugs. Neither do they contain any narcotics or injurious agents, their ingredients being purely vegetable, extracted from the roots of medicinal plants found growing in the depths of our American forests and of well recognized curative virtues.

Instead of alcohol, which even in small portions long continued, as in obstinate cases of diseases, becomes highly objectionable from its tendency to produce a craving for stimulants, Dr. Pierce employs chemically pure, triple refined glycerine, which of itself is a valuable remedy in many cases of chronic disease, being a superior demulcent, anti-saptic, anti-ferment and supporting nutritive. It enhances the curative action of the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry-bark and Bloodroot, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery," in all bronchial, throat and lung affections attended with severe coughs. As will be seen from the writings of the eminent Drs. Grover Coe, of New York; Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, Phila.; Scudder, of Cincinnati; Ellingwood, of Chicago; Hale, of Chicago, and others, who stand as leaders in their several schools of practice. The foregoing agents are the very best ingredients that Dr. Pierce could have chosen to make up his famous "Discovery" for the cure of not only bronchial, throat and lung affections, but also of chronic catarrh in all its various forms in whatever part of the system located.

By reading the writings of these eminent medical men contained in the little booklet recently compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., which will be sent free, on request by postal card or letter, addressed to him, as above, the reader will find that all the several native, medicinal roots entering into the "Golden Medical Discovery," as also into Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments, are very highly recommended and praised as cures for diseases for which Dr. Pierce advises these famous medicines of his preparation.

Dr. Ellingwood says of Golden Seal root, which is an important ingredient in both "Favorite Prescription" and "Golden Medical Discovery," "it is an important remedy in disorders of the womb." He continues: "In all catarrhal conditions, especially in flabby, muscular relaxation and general enfeeblement, it is useful." Prof. Scudder, late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root, in relation to its general effect on the system, "there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic, useful in all debilitated states." Dr. Bartholow says that Golden Seal root is "valuable in uterine hemorrhage (bleeding), hemorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhœa (painful menstruation)."

Prof. John King, author of the American Dispensatory, says of Black Cohosh root, another ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," "in dysmenorrhœa (painful periods), it is surpassed by no other drug, being of the greatest utility in irritative and congestive conditions of the uterus and appendages characterized by tensive, dragging pains resembling the pains of rheumatism." He continues: "It is a good remedy for the reflex (side aches) of unmarried women." He also recommends it for uterine leucorrhœa, also for sterility. He further says, "its action is slow, but its effects are permanent." He also recommends this agent for St. Vitus's dance, also for many rheumatic conditions, as does also Hobart H. Hare, M. D., professor in the Med. Dept., University of Pa. Other agents entering into the "Favorite Prescription" are equally praised in the little book of extracts from prominent medical authors whose published works are consulted by physicians of all the several schools to guide them in prescribing.

"Golden Medical Discovery," as also Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may be relied upon to cure all the diseases and more than all that their several ingredients are represented as curing, by the above eminent physicians, for they are so compounded that each ingredient acts in harmony with all the others, and also enhances their curative action. They may be taken conjointly in alternate doses with great advantage.

The most intelligent people are fast coming to the conclusion that it does not pay and is not safe to resort to medicines of doubtful composition when there are those in the market every ingredient of which is published on their wrappers and which are so strongly praised and endorsed by scores of those most eminent in the medical profession. Secret medicines can, of course, have, no such professional endorsement.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open, honest statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the afflicted into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines freely before them because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice as cures for the diseases for which these medicines are recommended.

Your druggist sells the "Favorite Prescription" and also that famous alterative, blood purifier and stomach tonic, the "Golden Medical Discovery." Write to Dr. Pierce about your case. He is an experienced physician and will treat your case as confidential and without charge for correspondence. Address him at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., of which he is chief consulting physician.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

A good medical book, written in plain English, and free from technical terms is a valuable work for frequent consultation. Such a work is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It's a book of 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. It is given away now, although formerly sold in cloth binding for $1.50. Send 21 cents, in one-cent stamps, to pay for cost of mailing only for paper-covered copy, addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.; or 31 cents for an elegantly cloth-bound copy.
